Coal Mine Strike Set At Midnight; Accord Hope Dim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations covering 80,000 coal miners are moving toward a midnight contract-expiration deadline tonight with no hint of a settlement and indications of possible strikes.

"Some of those miners have a history of jumping the gun," said one source of the walkout possibility in some of the 20 coal-producing states.

"They're meeting," was the only official word of the talks between the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

Sources said it appeared virtually impossible to write a formal contract before midnight, and even a general memorandum of understanding probably wouldn't impress coal miners whose tradition is "no contract, no work."

They did not rule out, however, the possibility of a contract extension.

Complicating negotiations is the federal wage-price freeze and uncertainty over what economic restraints President Nixon might impose after the freeze.

Sources in the coal talks have indicated both sides wanted to reach an imterim settlement and avoid a strike, but negotiators reportedly still were far from agreement on wages and other crucial money matters.

No contract increases can go into effect until after the freeze and even then might be limited by the government.

UMW President W.A. "Tony" Boyle has said he would seek to boost current top wages from $37 to $50 per day, to at least double the current 40-cent-per-ton royalty for the union's welfare and retirement fund and to win other benefits.

A group of anti-Boyle miners attacked him and the fund for a report showing it operated $38 million in the red the past fiscal year, although it still retains an unspent balance of nearly $113 million.

Mike Trbovich, chairman of the Black Lung Association, said in a statement that the fund's operating deficit weakens the union's position in the negotiations.

They said at the current rate of spending the fund would be bankrupt by 1975, and accused Boyle of playing into the hands of coal operators by manipulating the fund into deficit spending.

They said a strike would lose money for the fund, and without a strike the union couldn't win its contract goals.

Boyle, who boosted miners' pensions from $115 to $150 a month when he was running for re-election two years ago, was forced by a federal judge to step down as a trustee of the fund for conflict of interest with his union presidency.

Power Lines Down, Low Areas Flooded

Ginger Pounds North Carolina

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Hurricane Ginger pounded the North Carolina coast today with 90-mile-an-hour winds, knocking out electric and telephone service, smashing windows and toppling rides at an amusement park at Atlantic Beach.

The National Weather Service said Ginger, which stalled in the Atlantic for three weeks before heading for land, was one of the largest and oldest hurricanes on record.

Paul M. Cox of New Bern, Civil Defense director for Craven County, said, "I've been here since 1936 and this is the largest storm we've had since '36."

The storm's 70-mile-an-hour eye was 20 miles east of Morehead City at 10 a.m., but gusts of up to 90 miles an hour were recorded. The weather service said the center of the storm probably would hit land later in the day.

As Ginger moved in, winds from her western edge pounded the coast, knocking down utility lines, uprooting trees and capsizing mobile homes. High tides and heavy rains flooded low-lying areas and blocked some streets and highways.

No injuries were reported.

Gale force winds, which had extended 250 miles in all directions from the eye of the storm, began knocking down power lines and blowing out windows during the night along the coast. Weather forecasters said Ginger would continue her onslaught of the area for up to 50 hours.

Police Chief W. W. Moore of Atlantic Beach said all of his community was plunged into darkness during the night when power lines were knocked down. Parts of nearby Beaufort, a town of about 5,000, also were blacked out temporarily. Both areas went on auxiliary power.

At New Bern, torrential rains pushed the Neuse and Trent rivers out of their banks and left a foot of water in a street near their confluence. The water was rising at 18 inches an hour.

Red Cross official Stu Taber said 1,564 residents had taken refuge in improvised shelters during the night in the counties of Cartaret, Pamlico and Craven.

Homeowners and vacationers were put in other Red Cross shelters as far south as Oak Island, below Wilmington near the South Carolina state line.

Tides were predicted to go seven feet above normal. Tidal waters during the night already had begun flooding roads on Goose Creek Island above

South Viet Reinforcements Seek To Lift Base Sieges

TAY NINH, Vietnam (AP) — An armada of U.S. and South Vietnamese helicopters lifted 2,000 South Vietnamese reinforcements into corridors on both sides of the Cambodian border today in an effort to lift sieges at two fire bases.

While the troops were being landed north of this forward base, enemy gunners fired seven 100-pound rockets at the headquarters of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Xuan Thinh, the field commander, a nearby helicopter pad.

The rockets fell short and landed in a refugee village outside the base, smashing a cluster of a half dozen shanty houses and shops, a Roman Catholic church and the market place. Six refugees from North Vietnam were killed, including two children, and about a dozen were wounded.

Thinh had just taken off in his helicopter to inspect field positions when the rockets landed. There are often three or four U.S. generals moving in and out of Thinh's headquarters, but at the time of the attack, only one was there.

U.S. rocket-firing gunships left the pad and attacked the rocket launching sites believed to be about two miles from the base.

Thinh said earlier that "many outposts" along a 30-mile stretch of Highways 22, 78 and 7—that run from Tay Ninh north to the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Krek—were shelled by North Vietnamese gunners overnight, and ground attacks were launched against two bases. He said, however, "there are indications the enemy has decreased the momentum of its offensive."

In Saigon, South Vietnamese headquarters reported 14 rocket and mortar attacks Wednesday and today against South Vietnamese positions along the stretch roughly 60 to 90 miles northwest of Saigon. Informants said 15 South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded.

U.S. Takes Tough Line At Paris

PARIS (AP) — President Nixon's new Vietnam peace negotiator bluntly told Hanoi and the Viet Cong today they were in no position to dictate peace terms to the United States.

Referring to Communist demands for an unconditional American withdrawal from South Vietnam, Ambassador William J. Porter declared:

"You apparently overlook the fact that your military position is unimpressive. One needs only to keep in mind that, of the 300 or so district and province capitals of South Vietnam, you do not hold a single one after these many years of war, and your best military efforts.

"You are, in fact, further from military victory than ever. In such circumstances, your use of peremptory language seems rather pretentious. Perhaps the use of such language is intended to conceal your lack of authority and military success in South Vietnam, but I would suggest that ... you keep in mind that your negotiating proposals ... would be much more effective if they reflected a greater sense of realism on your part."

Porter, who took over early in August as head of the U.S. delegation, was addressing the 130th session of the deadlocked negotiations.

Soviet-U.S. Agreements To Be Signed

Modern Hot Line, Accidental War Issues Covered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union arranged to sign today two disarmament side-agreements amid avowed hope for more progress this fall toward a superpower missile-curb accord.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko planned to sign agreements on modernizing the Washington-Moscow hot line and avoiding accidental nuclear war.

After the signing ceremony at the State Department, the two foreign affairs leaders arranged a working lunch at the Soviet embassy. Today's meeting marked their final scheduled get-together in a series of high-level talks begun at the United Nations last Friday.

President Nixon conferred with Gromyko for two hours Wednesday, including a half-hour with no aides present.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said that in the talks ranging across major international issues, Nixon and Gromyko had noted "some steady progress" in the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) which recessed at Helsinki a week ago.

"The President is hopeful there will be additional forward movement when the talks resume in Vienna in November," Ziegler said.

The SALT talks are aimed at curbing the superpower nuclear-arms race. Last May 20 the two sides announced their intention to strive this year for an antiballistic-missile limitation plus measures to restrict offensive missiles.

Ziegler termed the atmosphere of the White House session "very cordial" but gave few specifics beyond naming topics discussed: Berlin, SALT, European security, the Mideast, Vietnam and improving U.S.-Soviet relations.

Nader Predicts Ecological Changes

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Consumer champion Ralph Nader predicted Wednesday that movements to bring change in ecological and consumer-oriented practices of government and industry soon will sweep the nation.

"This, coupled with the 18-20-year-old vote, can create a real change," Nader told a Findlay College audience.

He described recent movements in Oregon and Minnesota in which college students assessed themselves $3 a year to hire attorneys, researchers and lobbyists to represent their interests.

Rogers-Riad Talks Lead To Dead End

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad have agreed the United States should continue to work for an interim Mideast settlement, but they differ on the value of such efforts.

Riad emerged from a two-hour, ten-minute luncheon meeting Wednesday to tell newsmen: "Any effort by the United states or other big power to achieve peace is welcome." But he threw some cold water on this effort when he added: "The Jarring mission is still the best way to achieve peace."

Riad was referring to the United Nations-sponsored effort by Swedish mediator Gunnar Jarring to work out a permanent settlement, one based on Israeli withdrawal from Egyptian territory occupied during the 1967 war.

Israel has rejected that approach and the Jarring mission has been dormant since Rogers opened his initiative earlier in the year to achieve an interim settlement by reopening the Suez canal.

The problem with such a temporary arrangement, Riad said, is that it might end up a permanent settlement, leaving Egypt without the territory it lost more than four years ago. He said it is the duty of the United States and other big powers to achieve Israel's agreement to the Jarring proposals.

CAUSEY JURY — The 12 member, one alternate jury selected Thursday morning, surveyed the scene of the March 25 three-truck wreck on Route 23, where Talmer Wise and Herbert Allen were killed. Driver of a truck involved in the accident, James D. Causey, is being tried today in Municipal Court for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead and two counts of homicide by a motor vehicle in the second degree.

Jury Trial Starts On Fatal Truck-Fire Engine Accident

Reckless operation and two counts of vehicular homicide were dismissed against James D. Causey Thursday in Circleville Municipal Court and refiled as failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead and homicide by motor vehicle in the second degree.

Causey is being tried today in the March 25 3-vehicle accident on Route 23 that claimed the life of retired Circleville Fire Chief Talmer Wise and relief truck driver, Herbert Allen.

Solicitor Charles Hosterman asked charges be reduced following a short consultation with Sheriff's Deputy Robert Hoover, chief prosecuting witness in the case.

A 12-member jury was selected at 11 a.m., following the questioning of 25 prospective jurors by Hosterman and defense attorney Daniel Wiles, of Columbus. One alternate juror was selected.

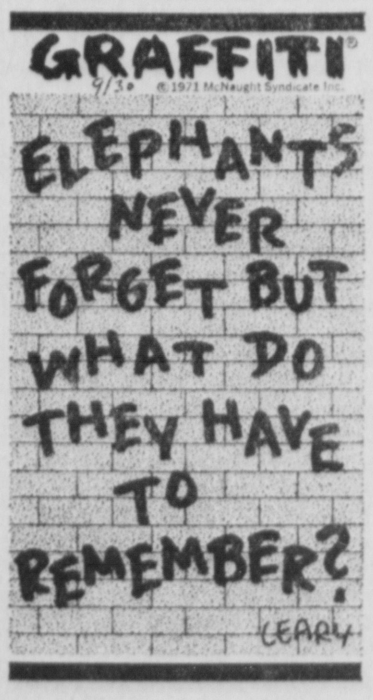
CAUSEY requested a jury trial in Municipal Court following the charges.

Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb was replaced on the bench by Judge Harry Margulis at Lamb's request.

Four initial jurors called were dismissed for personal reasons, and four other selectees were dismissed for cause by Hosterman.

The jurors selected are: Richard England, Dwight Hershey, Shirley Singleton, John Teal, Dwight Rector, Jennie Jinks, Martha Bahr, Donald Ott, Grace DeLong, Barbara Hart, JoAnn Primble and Ronald Shipley. John O'Donnell was chosen as an alternate.



Quarterly Draft Calls Aid Future Of Potential GIs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Setting a pattern for the future, the Pentagon issued today a quarterly draft call of 10,000 men for the remainder of the year.

In announcing the call—the first in three months—a Pentagon spokesman said Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird hopes to make future draft announcements on a quarterly basis rather than month-to-month as has been past practice.

The spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, said this will reduce the uncertainty over a young man's chances in the draft and also give him more time to arrange his personal affairs.

The new call, covering October, November and December brings the total number of men called this year to 98,000, smallest since 1962, when 76,500 were drafted.

Draft calls in the first six months of this year totaled 88,000. A call of 10,000 was issued for July and August but this was forgotten when conscription authority died with the old draft law June 30.

A bill renewing the draft for two years was signed Tuesday by President Nixon. The administration hopes to end draft calls and field an all-volunteer force by mid-1973.

Under the new call, actual inductions are not expected to begin until about mid-October. Selective Service is required by law to give a man at least 10 days' notice before he must report.

Men with low draft numbers who have lost their deferments — primarily students graduated from college in June, or dropouts—are expected to be the first called.

Selective Service officials have said nearly every qualified man with lottery no. 125 or lower will be called. It is possible men with numbers as high as 140 also may get notices.

Although the draft lapsed for three months, the Selective Service machinery was kept intact and men were called for preinduction physicals.

Ohio Senators Split On F14 Fund Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) —Ohio Republican Sens. William Saxbe and Robert Taft Jr. voted with the majority Wednesday so the Senate rejected 64-21 an amendment by Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, to bar funds for deployment, construction and procurement of the Safeguard antiballistic missile (ABM) system. posing votes were cast by Ohio's two Republican senators Wednesday as the Senate rejected 61-28 an amendment by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to eliminate funds for the F-14 fighter.

Sen. William Saxbe voted for the amendment and Sen. Robert Taft Jr. against.

Dock Strike Looms Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nixon administration today entered a labor dispute that could shut down the nation's remaining deep sea ports with a dock strike at midnight on the East and Gulf coasts.

Asst. Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery Jr. and Maritime Administration Director Andrew E. Gibson summoned shippers and officials of the strike-threatening AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association into an eleventh-hour meeting here.

The government officials appeared to be seeking the final positions of the parties on expiring contracts covering 45,000 dockworkers prior to a decision in Washington on whether to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction.

The probability of injunctive action came as a result of failure by negotiators to settle a three-month strike by 15,000 members of the independent International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union on the West Coast.

President Nixon, dropping in on the West Coast negotiators last week, had indicated he would reluctantly resort to Taft-Hartley and its 80-day injunction provision if the strike on the Pacific Coast was not terminated promptly.

The urgency of the situation lay in the prospect that all but the Great Lakes ports would be closed to dry cargo shipping for the first time in the nation's history, with only military shipments exempted.

Close School At Middletown

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) —Middletown High School was closed today as hundreds of white students conducted demonstrations to counter a black student disturbance Wednesday.

Principal Lewis Hill ordered classes suspended as students marched around the school in groups up to 60 students.

There were instances of rock throwing at police cruisers called to restore order.

The demonstrations began as parents of 50 black pupils who were suspended Wednesday met inside the school to discuss reinstatement of their children.

Hill had called the meeting with a parents committee.

OEA Delegation Visits Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — delegation from the Ohio Education Association visited congressmen Wednesday to ask for clarification of Cost of Living council guidelines for teacher contracts under President Nixon's wage-price freeze.

OEA President William McDonald of Jackson said educators are concerned over "unfair and chaotic conditions" existing because of the freeze.

Panel OKs Major Ohio Strip Mine Bill

By TAHLMAN KRUMM
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Environment and Natural Resources Committee has given its unanimous approval to broadly-worded legislation to end the destruction of Ohio's lands and waterways by much of the state's strip mine industry.

The bill's tough new regulation and reclamation requirements are the product of five months of exhaustive study in committee and subcommittee. More than 500 amendments were made to the measure between the time it was introduced April 14 and Wednesday's late night vote.

An obviously-pleased committee chairman, Rep. Kenneth Creasy, R-18 Delaware, assessed the merits of the bill following the vote: "We're still solid. The must stuff stuck. The substance and intent are still there, and I'm pleased."

"We went overboard to make sure we heard everybody," Creasy said, explaining the near-marathon hearings on the legislation last month and this. "What we have is good, strong new law."

Rep. Sam Speck, R-29 New Concord, the bill's prime sponsor, went further. "It should provide Ohio with one of the best reclamation laws in the country."

The bill moves now to the House Rules Committee to await assignment to the regular calendar for a floor vote. Creasy said he expected early action. Passage by the House is expected, but the measure faces stiff opposition in the Senate.

Creasy called reclamation provisions "the heart and meat of the bill." They would require that:

—Within three months after a coal seam has been uncovered at a strip mine operation, reclamation must begin. The reclamation process, including backfilling, grading, resodding, is to be completed within six months after the strip-mine project ends, with replanting to be scheduled for the earliest appropriate growing season. A two-year grace period is now given for reclamation work.

—Original topsoil must be removed, segregated and reused at the mining site to encourage growth of vegetation.

—Restoration of the land shall approximate the original, natural contour of the land, with soil banks graded not to exceed a 15 degree slope and high walls to be cut down to no more than 35 degrees.

—Water impoundment is allowed only if water quality can be guaranteed and the impoundment is part of the reclamation process, not a result of the strip mine operation.

The bill calls for a reclamation surety bond of no less than $5,000 per project with the actual figure to be set by the chief of the Department of Natural Resources' Division of Wildlife and Reclamation sufficient to cover the estimated full cost of restoration.

State law now calls for no more than a $300 bond per acre for reclamation. Testimony before the committee suggested the $300 limit was often not enough.

Other important provisions of the legislation:

—Require filing of a pre-plan with the Division of Wildlife and Reclamation before strip mining can begin. Included must be a statement of intended future use of the land to be mined, the type of mining procedure to be used, plans to prevent environmental damage, planned reclamation work, estimated cost of the project and a

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad have agreed the United States should continue to work for an interim Mideast settlement, but they differ on the value of such efforts.

Riad emerged from a two-hour, ten-minute luncheon meeting Wednesday to tell newsmen: "Any effort by the United states or other big power to achieve peace is welcome." But he threw some cold water on this effort when he added: :"The Jarring mission is still the best way to achieve peace."

Riad was referring to the United Nations-sponsored effort by Swedish mediator Gunnar Jarring to work out a permanent settlement, one based on Israeli withdrawal from Egyptian territory occupied during the 1967 war.

Israel has rejected that approach and the Jarring mission has been dormant since Rogers opened his initiative earlier in the year to achieve an interim settlement by reopening the Suez canal.

The problem with such a temporary arrangement, Riad said, is that it might end up a permanent settlement, leaving Egypt without the territory it lost more than four years ago. He said it is the duty of the United States and other big powers to achieve Israel's agreement to the Jarring proposals.

CAUSEY JURY — The 12 member, one alternate jury selected Thursday morning, surveyed the scene of the March 25 three-truck wreck on Route 23, where Talmer Wise and Herbert Allen were killed. Driver of a truck involved in the accident, James D. Causey, is being tried today in Municipal Court for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead and two counts of homicide by a motor vehicle in the second degree.

Jury Trial Starts On Fatal Truck-Fire Engine Accident

Reckless operation and two counts of vehicular homicide were dismissed against James D. Causey Thursday in Circleville Municipal Court and refiled as failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead and homicide by motor vehicle in the second degree.

Causey is being tried today in the March 25 3-vehicle accident on Route 23 that claimed the life of retired Circleville Fire Chief Talmer Wise and relief truck driver, Herbert Allen.

Solicitor Charles Hosterman asked charges be reduced following a short consultation with Sheriff's Deputy Robert Hoover, chief prosecuting witness in the case.

A 12-member jury was selected at 11 a.m., following the questioning of 25 prospective jurors by Hosterman and defense attorney Daniel Wiles, of Columbus. One alternate juror was selected.

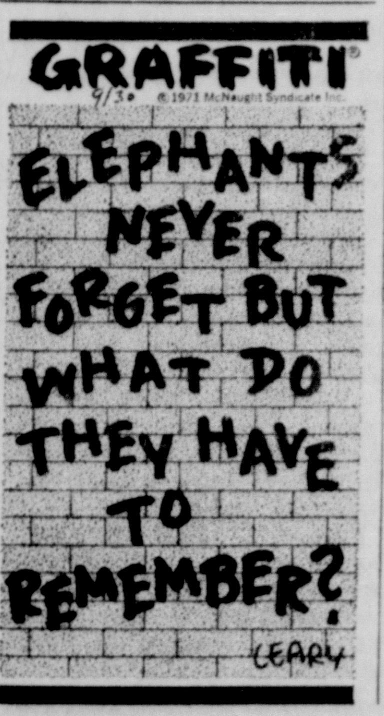
* * *

CAUSEY requested a jury trial in Municipal Court following the charges.

Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb was replaced on the bench by Judge Harry Margulis at Lamb's request.

Four initial jurors called were dismissed for personal reasons, and four other selectees were dismissed for cause by Hosterman.

The jurors selected are: Richard England, Dwight Hershey, Shirley Singleton, John Teal, Dwight Rector, Jennie Jinks, Martha Bahr, Donald Ott, Grace DeLong, Barbara Hart, JoAnn Primble and Ronald Shipley. John O'Donnell was chosen as an alternate.



Quarterly Draft Calls Aid Future Of Potential GIs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Setting a pattern for the future, the Pentagon issued today a quarterly draft call of 10,000 men for the remainder of the year.

In announcing the call—the first in three months—a Pentagon spokesman said Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird hopes to make future draft announcements on a quarterly basis rather than month-to-month as has been past practice.

The spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, said this will reduce the uncertainty over a young man's chances in the draft and also give him more time to arrange his personal affairs.

The new call, covering October, November and December brings the total number of men called this year to 98,000, smallest since 1962, when 76,500 were drafted.

Draft calls in the first six months of this year totaled 88,000. A call of 16,000 was issued for July and August but this was forgotten when conscription authority died with the old draft law June 30.

A bill renewing the draft for two years was signed Tuesday by President Nixon. The administration hopes to end draft calls and field an all-volunteer force by mid-1973.

Under the new call, actual inductions are not expected to begin until about mid-October. Selective Service is required by law to give a man at least 10 days' notice before he must report.

Men with low draft numbers who have lost their deferments — primarily students graduated from college in June, or dropouts—are expected to be the first called.

Selective Service officials have said nearly every qualified man with lottery no. 125 or lower will be called. It is possible men with numbers as high as 140 also may get notices.

Although the draft lapsed for three months, the Selective Service machinery was kept intact and men were called for preinduction physicals.

Ohio Senators Split On F14 Fund Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) —Ohio Republican Sens. William Saxbe and Robert Taft Jr. voted with the majority Wednesday so the Senate rejected 64-21 an amendment by Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, to bar funds for deployment, construction and procurement of the Safeguard antiballistic missile (ABM) system. posing votes were cast by Ohio's two Repbulican senators Wednesday as the Senate rejected 61-28 an amendment by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to eliminate funds for the F-14 fighter.

Sen. William Saxbe voted for the amendment and Sen. Robert Taft Jr. against.

Dock Strike Looms Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nixon administration today entered a labor dispute that could shut down the nation's remaining deep sea ports with a dock strike at midnight on the East and Gulf coasts.

Asst. Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery Jr. and Maritime Administration Director Andrew E. Gibson summoned shippers and officials of the strike-threatening AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association into an eleventh-hour meeting here.

The government officials appeared to be seeking the final positions of the parties on expiring contracts covering 45,000 dockworkers prior to a decision in Washington on whether to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction.

The probability of injunctive action came as a result of failure by negotiators to settle a three-month strike by 15,000 members of the independent International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union on the West Coast.

President Nixon, dropping in on the West Coast negotiators last week, had indicated he would reluctantly resort to Taft-Hartley and its 80-day injunction provision if the strike on the Pacific Coast was not terminated promptly.

The urgency of the situation lay in the prospect that all but the Great Lakes ports would be closed to dry cargo shipping for the first time in the nation's history, with only military shipments exempted.

Close School At Middletown

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) —Middletown High School was closed today as hundreds of white students conducted demonstrations to counter a black student disturbance Wednesday.

Principal Lewis Hill ordered classes suspended as students marched around the school in groups up to 60 students.

There were instances of rock throwing at police cruisers called to restore order.

The demonstrations began as parents of 50 black pupils who were suspended Wednesday met inside the school to discuss reinstatement of their children.

Hill had called the meeting with a parents committee.

OEA Delegation Visits Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — delegation from the Ohio Education Association visited congressmen Wednesday to ask for clarification of Cost of Living ouncil guidelines for teacher contracts under President Nixon's wage-price freeze.

OEA President William McDonald of Jackson said educators are concerned over "unfair and chaotic conditions" existing because of the freeze.

Panel OKs Major Ohio Strip Mine Bill

By TAHLMAN KRUMM
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Environment and Natural Resources Committee has given its unanimous approval to broadly-worded legislation to end the destruction of Ohio's lands and waterways by much of the state's strip mine industry.

The bill's tough new regulation and reclamation requirements are the product of five months of exhaustive study in committee and subcommittee. More than 500 amendments were made to the measure between the time it was introduced April 14 and Wednesday's late night vote.

An obviously-pleased committee chairman, Rep. Kenneth Creasy, R-18 Delaware, assessed the merits of the bill following the vote: "We're still solid. The must stuff stuck. The substance and intent are still there, and I'm pleased."

"We went overboard to make sure we heard everybdy," Creasy said, explaining the near-marathon hearings on the legislation last month and this. "What we have is good, stiff new law."

Rep. Sam Speck, R-29 New Concord, the bill's prime sponsor, went further. "It should provide Ohio with one of the best reclamation laws in the country," he said.

The bill moves now to the House Rules Committee to await assignment to the regular calendar for a floor vote. Creasy said he expected early action. Passage by the House is expected, but the measure faces stiff opposition in the Senate.

Creasy called reclamation provisions "the heart and meat of the bill." They would require that:

—Within three months after a coal seam has been uncovered at a strip mine operation, reclamation must begin. The reclamation process, including backfilling, grading, resodding, is to be completed within six months after the strip-mine project ends, with replanting to be scheduled for the earliest appropriate growing season. A two-year grace period is now given for reclamation work.

—Original topsoil must be removed, segregated and reused at the mining site to encourage growth of vegetation.

—Restoration of the land shall approximate the original, natural contour of the land, with soil banks graded not to exceed a 15 degree slope and high walls to be cut down to no more than 35 degrees.

—Water impoundment is allowed only if water quality can be guaranteed and the impoundment is part of the reclamation process, not a result of the strip mine operation.

The bill calls for a reclamation surety bond of no less than $5,000 per project with the actual figure to be set by the chief of the Department of Natural Resources' Division of Wildlife and Reclamation sufficient to cover the estimated full cost of restoration.

State law now calls for no more than a $300 bond per acre for reclamation. Testimony before the committee suggested the $300 limit was often not enough.

Other important provisions of the legislation:

—Require filing of a pre-plan with the Division of Wildlife and Reclamation before strip mining can begin. Included must be a statement of intended future use of the land to be mined, the type of mining procedure to be used, plans to prevent environmental damage, planned reclamation work, estimated cost of the project and a

Crime Commission, Welfare Occupy Assembly

By TAHLMAN KRUMM
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House, preoccupied with reapportionment, faces two major floor tests today on legislation to create a legislative crime commission and to require employable welfare recipients to work for their benefits.

The Senate, in recess from floor action until Tuesday, has only a morning skeleton session planned.

Legislation calling for establishment of a standing House Committee on Organized Crime comes to a vote under the sponsorship of Rep. Alan Norris, R-59 Westerville, chairman of the Criminal Law section of the House Judiciary Committee.

The bill would:

—Set up a 15-member investigative committee appointed by the Speaker of the House, with no more than eight members representing the same political party.

—Invest the committee with broad subpoena powers and authority to compel the production of any records, papers or books relevent to its investigations.

—Grant the committee authority to extend immunity from prosecution to witnesses.

Backers of the measure have called it a "significant step" toward eliminating mob crime in the state, crime that costs Ohio and its citizens millions of dollars each year.

Opponents have warned the awarding of such arbitrary authority to a legislative committee is sure to spark "witch-hunts," aimed more at providing public exposure for legislators than combatting crime.

The second House bill — to require able-bodied recipients of poor relief and Aid to Dependent Children benefits to work on state projects — is one of a series of recommendations made by a Select Committee on Public Assistance following a year of study of state welfare programs.

The measure, backers say, coupled with proposed new residency requirements for welfare eligibility, will reduce public assistance rolls that presently consume a lion's share of state revenue.

Legislative action Wednesday was routine, with appointment of conferees to the joint conference committee to iron out differences over biennial tax-budget legislation further delayed.

House Speaker Charles Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg, said no official announcement would be made until after he and Senate Majority Leader Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, had had a chance to map out conference tactics.

A meeting between the two is expected following today's House session.

Thieu Foes Gain Strength As Sunday Election Nears

SAIGON (AP) — Political foes of President Nguyen Van Thieu renewed a call today for a voters' boycott of Sunday's one-man presidential election and prepared for a "people's congress" to unite opposition factions.

Members of South Vietnam's Senate, in a two-hour debate, accused Thieu of "oppressing the press" by confiscating antigovernment newspapers. They called on Thieu to order a special lower house session to write a new election law.

Police, meanwhile, arrested eight students possessing gasoline firebombs in a Saigon market place and sent reinforcements to several markets where reports indicated student activity might increase.

The arrests brought to 74 the number of persons taken into custody in three days of anti-Thieu protests in the capital. Most of them apparently have been released.

Da Nang, the nation's second largest city, was reported quiet but tense following three days of clashes between police and antigovernment veterans, students and Buddhist monks.

Some U.S. naval personnel in Saigon were restricted to their quarters because of what reliable informants said were reports that snipers might be active in the vicinity of Navy headquarters.

The newly formed Committee Against Dictatorship, consisting of leading political and religious figures, and the militant An Quang Buddhist faction, issued communiques urging voters to boycott the election and to repudiate the results.

The committee, headed by Hoa Hao sect politician Trinh Quoc Khanh, called on "all classes of people to unify in struggle against Nguyen Van Thieu, the dictator." It announced plans to hold a "people's congress" Friday to unify the opposition to the election.

The committee said it expects 2,000 delegates from throughout South Vietnam to attend the meeting at Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's government guest house.

Ky, who charged the election is rigged and refused to run after being reinstated on the ballot, has lent his name to the organization but has remained behind the scenes.

Senate Sets Pullout Vote; Defeat Expected In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time in less than four months the Senate is set to approve a call for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina in a specified period—this time, six months.

Nixon administration supporters conceded in advance of a vote today they would be unable to stop Senate approval of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's withdrawal amendment. It's being attached to a $21-billion military procurement bill.

They expect, however, the House will reject such a measure as it has before. And, they said Senate-House conferees probably will water down a Mansfield amendment, as they had when one was offered on the draft-extension bill.

Before tackling the withdrawal issue, the Senate votes on a move by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., to delete $35.3 million added by the Senate Armed Services Committee to $27.5 million approved for the Main Battle Tank program.

Also due for debate was an effort by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to delete a provision breaking the United Nations embargo on trade with Rhodesia. An earlier effort failed.

Wednesday, administration forces easily defeated attempts to cut back two of the Pentagon's most criticized weapons projects, the Navy F14 fighter plane and the safeguard anti-ballistic-missile system.

BUMPER STICKER — Carole Samuels, 22, from Sydney, Australia, was named "Miss South Florida Auto Show" for the Nov. 6-14 event in Miami.

By a vote of 61 to 28, the Senate shot down Sen. William Proxmire's amendment to cut $801.6 million for production of 48 F14s. Proxmire, D-Wis., contended the existing F4 fighter, with slight modifications, could perform better than the F14.

Then by a lopsided count of 64 to 21, the Senate swept aside this year's effort to limit the ABM. A number of leading arms-control advocates announced acceptance of the administration's contention the ABM is needed as a bargaining chip for the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks (SALT).

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., who led the bitter 1969 and 1970 fights to stop Safeguard, said he switched this year after visiting the arms talks.

"It is my firm belief," he said, "that an agreement on ABM at a very low level of deployment, an agreement completely consistent with U.S. security, is attainable by the end of this calendar year."

6 Persons Are Killed In Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A traffic crash costing two lives and other accidents causing at least four other fatalities have been reported in Ohio since Wednesday afternoon.

The dead:

DEFIANCE — Margaret Lane, 47, of near Defiance, and her daughter, Sandra, 16, were killed Wednesday evening when their automobile collided head-on with a pickup truck on Ohio 66 about two miles south of Defiance. The driver of the truck, Larry McBrude, 28, of near Archbold, was hurt seriously.

CINCINNATI — Jerry W. England, 40, of Cincinnati, died Wednesday in Bethesda-North Hospital of injuries received in an automobile collision Monday.

TOLEDO — Antonio Gonzales, 35, of Swanton, Lucas County, died in Medical College Hospital Wednesday of injuries suffered in a single car accident on a Lucas County road Sept. 20.

COLUMBUS — Ralph E. Kennedy, 67, of Mount Sterling, died in Doctor's Hospital West of injuries suffered when his car collided with another at a Madison County intersection.

COLUMBUS — Uri Converse, 79, of Plain City, died in Mount Carmel Hospital Wednesday night after a mishap at a Columbus intersection.

Meany Calls Poff Racist

NEW YORK (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says that Rep. Richard Poff, R-Va., is a racist and has indicated the labor organization might oppose a nomination of Poff to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I understand Mr. Poff is a very nice gentleman, but on his record he's a racist." Meany said Wednesday while at the taping of a television interview for the David Frost program for broadcast Oct. 7.

Poff has been mentioned as a possible choice of President Nixon for one of two vacant seats on the high court.

Meany cited Poff's signing of the so-called Southern Manifesto, a 1954 declaration of opposition to that year's landmark Supreme Court ruling outlawing segregated school systems.

NAACP Director Clarence Mitchell cited the same Poff signature in indicating on Sept. 22 that his civil rights organization would oppose a Poff nomination.

Panel Told Of C5A Foulups

WASHINGTON (AP) — Management blunders on the C5A transport cost so much and caused so much confusion "it was like a thousand blind dogs turned loose in a meat market," a former Lockheed Aircraft production manager has told a congressional committee.

Declaring he and his family were subjected to death threats after he made his story public, Henry M. Durham gave details of snafus he said added millions of dollars to C5A costs.

"In my opinion the Air Force was in collusion with Lockheed to sell work when the work had not been accomplished, and to falsify records—or else the Air Force is blind," he added.

Durham's accusations were denied immediately by Lockheed Vice President H. L. Poore who said he deplored threats on Durham's life but added too much attention is being paid to the story of one man in possession of "incomplete facts."

"Usually the name of the game in any situation was to make schedule, regardless of the price," Durham told Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Proxmire's Joint Economic Committee is continuing its probe of more than $2 billion in cost overruns in C5A cargo transport production at Lockheed's Marietta, Ga., plant.

Circleville Bible College Says "Thanks"

(I Thess. 5-18)

We at Circleville Bible College wish to express our sincere appreciation to the business men who have granted employment to our students.

Approximately 75% of our students depend upon part-time employment to finance their education.

Our enrollment this fall will be one of the largest in the twenty-four year history of our college, which means we need more jobs than ever before.

If you have need of a young man or woman for part-time work whether clerical, janitorial or whatever, please call Rev. David Lattimer at 474-8897.

Thank you.

September Juvenile Matters Given Hearings In Afternoon

Pickaway County's juvenile court hearings were reorganized in September to hold late afternoon hearings, accomodating the new assistant county prosecutor, Michael Cochran. Hearings for the last part of the month included the following cases:

A 15-year-old Orient boy was placed on indefinite probation since being found "ungovernable" in refusing to obey his guardian.

A case of breaking and entering against three brothers, age 10, 11 and 12 was dismissed due to lack of evidence. The three had been charged with breaking into a storage shed on the David Rothgeb property near Williamsport in July.

On Sept. 17, Gregory Dearth, 17, 139 York St., was found guilty of a red light violation and had his driving privileges restricted to work and school for 60 days.

Arrested Sept. 7 by the Ashville Marshall for speeding and a week earlier by a sheriff's deputy for reckless operation, Bobby Lee Smith, 17, Route 1, was given a 60-day license suspension with permission to drive for school, work and drivers training. Both fines were suspended for the youth.

Also on Sept. 17, Stephen C. Cox, Chillicothe, had his license restricted for eight weeks for speeding 70 in a 60 mile zone. He was permitted to drive to work and for his mother.

A Route 2, Laurelville boy was ruled innocent by Judge Guy Cline, of running a stop sign. Craig M. Riddle, 16, had been cited by Highway Patrol when he admitted he had knowledge the road he had failed to stop on did have a stop sign before persons had taken it down.

Paul Jacobs 16, Route 5, received a $10 suspended fine and lost his driving privileges for two weeks for driving an auto with an improper exhaust system.

An Ashville man, William H. Gregg, was ordered to make up his arrearage on support and continue making regular payments.

Giving beer to a minor brought a $150 fine to Raymond Giffen in the Sept. 23 court session. Judge Cline suspended $125 of the fine and a 30 day jail sentence.

A 17-year-old Wellston boy cited by the Highway Patrol for having no muffler on his auto, had his case transferred to Jackson County.

Kevin Lee Pettibone, 14, South Bloomfield, was found guilty of operating a mini bike without a license. His $50 fine was suspended by the court, and a six month restriction placed on the youth when he becomes eligible to apply for a license.

Seventeen-year-old Roger L. Bell, Route 5, was picked up by city police for speeding and fined $5. His license was restricted to work and school purposes for the next 60 days.

The Lancaster area youth, 17, who was apprehended in connection with the theft of two air conditioners and a portable television from Teays Valley High School, was sentenced to the Mansfield Rehabilitation Youth Center.

Driver Cited, Injured In 1-Car Crash

A 30-year-old Circleville man is in Berger Hospital as the result of a high speed one-car accident 2:55 a.m. today on County Road 511, north of Wilson Ave.

Thomas M. Howell, 529 Elm Ave., suffered multiple cuts of the face, arms and legs when his northbound car left the right side of the road.

The careening vehicle hit a road marker sign and three mailboxes before crashing into a tree near the bend of the road. The auto was out of control for a distance of 189-feet and was demolished.

City police cited Howell for driving while intoxicated.

Crime Commission, Welfare Occupy Assembly

By TAHLMAN KRUMM
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House, preoccupied with reapportionment, faces two major floor tests today on legislation to create a legislative crime commission and to require employable welfare recipients to work for their benefits.

The Senate, in recess from floor action until Tuesday, has only a morning skeleton session planned.

Legislation calling for establishment of a standing House Committee on Organized Crime comes to a vote under the sponsorship of Rep. Alan Norris, R-59 Westerville, chairman of the Criminal Law section of the House Judiciary Committee.

The bill would:

—Set up a 15-member investigative committee appointed by the Speaker of the House, with no more than eight members representing the same political party.

—Invest the committee with broad subpoena powers and authority to compel the production of any records, papers or books relevent to its investigations.

—Grant the committee authority to extend immunity from prosecution to witnesses.

Backers of the measure have called it a "significant step" toward eliminating mob crime in the state, crime that costs Ohio and its citizens millions of dollars each year.

Opponents have warned the awarding of such arbitrary authority to a legislative committee is sure to spark "witch-hunts," aimed more at providing public exposure for legislators than combatting crime.

The second House bill — to require able-bodied recipients of poor relief and Aid to Dependent Children benefits to work on state projects — is one of a series of recommendations made by a Select Committee on Public Assistance following a year of study of state welfare programs.

The measure, backers say, coupled with proposed new residency requirements for welfare eligibility, will reduce public assistance rolls that presently consume a lion's share of state revenue.

Legislative action Wednesday was routine, with appointment of conferees to the joint conference committee to iron out differences over biennial tax-budget legislation further delayed.

House Speaker Charles Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg, said no official announcement would be made until after he and Senate Majority Leader Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, had had a chance to map out conference tactics.

A meeting between the two is expected following today's House session.

Thieu Foes Gain Strength As Sunday Election Nears

SAIGON (AP) — Political foes of President Nguyen Van Thieu renewed a call today for a voters' boycott of Sunday's one-man presidential election and prepared for a "people's congress" to unite opposition factions.

Members of South Vietnam's Senate, in a two-hour debate, accused Thieu of "oppressing the press" by confiscating antigovernment newspapers. They called on Thieu to order a special lower house session to write a new election law.

Police, meanwhile, arrested eight students possessing gasoline firebombs in a Saigon market place and sent reinforcements to several markets where reports indicated student activity might increase.

The arrests brought to 74 the number of persons taken into custody in three days of anti-Thieu protests in the capital. Most of them apparently have been released.

Da Nang, the nation's second largest city, was reported quiet but tense following three days of clashes between police and antigovernment veterans, students and Buddhist monks.

Some U.S. naval personnel in Saigon were restricted to their quarters because of what reliable informants said were reports that snipers might be active in the vicinity of Navy headquarters.

The newly formed Committee Against Dictatorship, consisting of leading political and religious figures, and the militant An Quang Budhist faction, issued communiques urging voters to boycott the election and to repudiate the results.

The committee, headed by Hoa Hao sect politician Trinh Quoc Khanh, called on "all classes of people to unify in struggle against Nguyen Van Thieu, the dictator." It announced plans to hold a "people's congress" Friday to unify the opposition to the election.

The committee said it expects 2,000 delegates from throughout South Vietnam to attend the meeting at Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's government guest house.

Ky, who charged the election is rigged and refused to run after being reinstated on the ballot, has lent his name to the organization but has remained behind the scenes.

Senate Sets Pullout Vote; Defeat Expected In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time in less than four months the Senate is set to approve a call for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina in a specified period—this time, six months.

Nixon administration supporters conceded in advance of a vote today they would be unable to stop Senate approval of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's withdrawal amendment. It's being attached to a $21-billion military procurement bill.

They expect, however, the House will reject such a measure as it has before. And, they said Senate-House conferees probably will water down a Mansfield amendment, as they had when one was offered on the draft-extension bill.

Before tackling the withdrawal issue, the Senate votes on a move by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., to delete $35.3 million added by the Senate Armed Services Committee to $27.5 million approved for the Main Battle Tank program.

Also due for debate was an effort by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to delete a provision breaking the United Nations embargo on trade with Rhodesia. An earlier effort failed.

Wednesday, administration forces easily defeated attempts to cut back two of the Pentagon's most criticized weapons projects, the Navy F14 fighter plane and the safeguard anti-ballistic-missile system.

By a vote of 61 to 28, the Senate shot down Sen. William Proxmire's amendment to cut $801.6 million for production of 48 F14s. Proxmire, D-Wis., contended the existing F4 fighter, with slight modifications, could perform better than the F14.

Then by a lopsided count of 64 to 21, the Senate swept aside this year's effort to limit the ABM. A number of leading arms-control advocates announced acceptance of the administration's contention the ABM is needed as a bargaining chip for the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks (SALT).

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., who led the bitter 1969 and 1970 fights to stop Safeguard, said he switched this year after visiting the arms talks.

"It is my firm belief," he said, "that an agreement on ABM at a very low level of deployment, an agreement completely consistent with U.S. security, is attainable by the end of this calendar year."

BUMPER STICKER — Carole Samuels, 22, from Sydney, Australia, was named "Miss South Florida Auto Show" for the Nov. 6-14 event in Miami.

Panel Told Of C5A Foulups

WASHINGTON (AP) — Management blunders on the C5A transport cost so much and caused so much confusion "it was like a thousand blind dogs turned loose in a meat market," a former Lockheed Aircraft production manager has told a congressional committee.

Declaring he and his family were subjected to death threats after he made his story public, Henry M. Durham gave details of snafus he said added millions of dollars to C5A costs.

"In my opinion the Air Force was in collusion with Lockheed to sell work when the work had not been accomplished, and to falsify records—or else the Air Force is blind," he added.

Durham's accusations were denied immediately by Lockheed Vice President H. L. Poore who said he deplored threats on Durham's life but believes too much attention is being paid to the story of one man in possession of "incomplete facts."

"Usually the name of the game in any situation was to make schedule, regardless of the price," Durham told Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Proxmire's Joint Economic Committee is continuing its probe of more than $2 billion in cost overruns in C5A cargo transport production at Lockheed's Marietta, Ga., plant.

Meany Calls Poff Racist

NEW YORK (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says that Rep. Richard Poff, R-Va., is a racist and has indicated the labor organization might oppose a nomination of Poff to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I understand Mr. Poff is a very nice gentleman, but on his record he's a racist," Meany said Wednesday while at the taping of a television interview for the David Frost program for broadcast Oct. 7.

Poff has been mentioned as a possible choice of President Nixon for one of two vacant seats on the high court.

Meany cited Poff's signing of the so-called Southern Manifesto, a 1954 declaration of opposition to that year's landmark Supreme Court ruling outlawing segregated school systems.

NAACP Director Clarence Mitchell cited the same Poff signature in indicating on Sept. 22 that his civil rights organization would oppose a Poff nomination.

6 Persons Are Killed In Crashes

'Y' Interest Groups Being Organized

Organization meetings for the YMCA's new special interest groups begin tonight.

Three meetings, scaled to interest youth and adults, are slated for Thursday evening at the "Y" on E. Franklin St. At 6:30 p.m. men and senior high school boys interested in a volleyball club or team can meet with Robert Ogden and Randy Clark in the YMCA board Room, second floor.

A 7 p.m. meeting has been arranged for all youth and adults interested in organizing a Ping Pong Club and team. This session will be held in the third floor recreation room with Don Hendricks in charge.

For the cycling enthusiasts, a 7:30 meeting will be held tonight on the second floor in the lounge.

* * *

FRIDAY, those interested in organizing a YMCA Hiking and Naturalist Club should assemble in the Board Room on the Y's second floor at 10:30 a.m.

These small groups or clubs give individuals with special skills in particular hobbies or interests an opportunity to share and teach others. Future meetings are being planned to organize bridge groups, a women's volleyball club, Y Girls' drill team, a gymnastics club, girls' athletics, men and older boys billiard club, couples' volleyball and badminton-paddle racket club.

Anyone interested in joining one of these groups who is unable to attend the scheduled meetings, or having suggestions for other groups should call the YMCA office at 474-8621.

September Juvenile Matters Given Hearings In Afternoon

Pickaway County's juvenile court hearings were reorganized in September to hold late afternoon hearings, accomodating the new assistant county prosecutor, Michael Cochran. Hearings for the last part of the month included the following cases:

A 15-year-old Orient boy was placed on indefinite probation since being found "ungovernable" in refusing to obey his guardian.

A case of breaking and entering against three brothers, age 10, 11 and 12 was dismissed due to lack of evidence. The three had been charged with breaking into a storage shed on the David Rothgeb property near Williamsport in July.

On Sept. 17, Gregory Dearth, 17, 139 York St., was found guilty of a red light violation and had his driving privileges restricted to work and school for 60 days.

Arrested Sept. 7 by the Ashville Marshall for speeding and a week earlier by a sheriff's deputy for reckless operation, Bobby Lee Smith, 17, Route 1, was given a 60-day license suspension with permission to drive for school, work and drivers training. Both fines were suspended for the youth.

Also on Sept. 17, Stephen C. Cox, Chillicothe, had his license restricted for eight weeks for speeding 70 in a 60 mile zone. He was permitted to drive to work and for his mother.

A Route 2, Laurelville boy was ruled innocent by Judge Guy Cline, of running a stop sign. Craig M. Riddle, 16, had been cited by Highway Patrol when he admitted he had knowledge the road he had failed to stop on did have a stop sign before persons had taken it down.

Paul Jacobs 16, Route 5, received a $10 suspended fine and lost his driving privileges for two weeks for driving an auto with an improper exhaust system.

An Ashville man, William H. Gregg, was ordered to make up his arrearage on support and continue making regular payments.

Giving beer to a minor brought a $150 fine to Raymond Giffen in the Sept. 23 court session. Judge Cline suspended $125 of the fine and a 30 day jail sentence.

A 17-year-old Wellston boy cited by the Highway Patrol for having no muffler on his auto, had his case transferred to Jackson County.

Kevin Lee Pettibone, 14, South Bloomfield, was found guilty of operating a mini bike without a license. His $50 fine was suspended by the court, and a six month restriction placed on the youth when he becomes eligible to apply for a license.

Seventeen-year-old Roger L. Bell, Route 5, was picked up by city police for speeding and fined $5. His license was restricted to work and school purposes for the next 60 days.

The Lancaster area youth, 17, who was apprehended in connection with the theft of two air conditioners and a portable television from Teays Valley High School, was sentenced to the Mansfield Rehabilitation Youth Center.

Driver Cited, Injured In 1-Car Crash

A 30-year-old Circleville man is in Berger Hospital as the result of a high speed one-car accident 2:55 a.m. today on County Road 511, north of Wilson Ave.

Thomas M. Howell, 529 Elm Ave., suffered multiple cuts of the face, arms and legs when his northbound car left the right side of the road.

The careening vehicle hit a road marker sign and three mailboxes before crashing into a tree near the bend of the road. The auto was out of control for a distance of 189-feet and was demolished.

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to make sure that you do nothing to upset any present conditions. There is considerable likelihood you will be eager to make some changes but be sure not to do anything that would be indiscreet and unwise. Use your best judgment every way.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You find it difficult to persuade a good friend so make your own plan for improving your present situation. Assist others who are in need. Count your blessings. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take the time to asist good pals. The social could bring trouble if you are not alert. Don't jeopardize friendship of a vital contact. Study a personal matter more thoroughly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't take any risks where career work is concerned or you could get in trouble. Seek advice from experts and then become more proficient at your work. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Obtain the knowledge you need for newcomers who are experts in your field of endeavor. Seek new interest. Don't waste time with one who is annoying and superficial.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how best to eliminate responsibilities you have. Your hunches are not very good today, so forget them. Use your best judgment and all is fine. Relax this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept.22) Many problematical affairs come up with associates so use tact and all works out just fine. Be exact in keeping promises with others. Avoid strife wherever you can. Be alert.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You must complete those jobs you started, so don't try to get away without doing them. Do not argue with co-workers. You can reap the benefits of your labors later on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You want a good time, which is fine provided you stick to proven pleasure. Do not try to force others to go along with you. Find the right creative hobby to enjoy on your vacation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try not to add to problems which family ties already have, but help them instead. Eliminate the root cause of trouble. Make the evening a happy one at home. Be poised.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Exercise much care in motion and avoid trouble. Think twice before you speak. Don't forget to count the change when you go out shopping. Use your own judgment when making purchases.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Engage in financial affairs that are important right now. Plan how to best repair your property so that it will be worth much more. Economy should be the keynote right now. Be wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Not a good day for entertaining. Make sure you do not get together with a person who can bring trouble into your life. Improve your appearance and health. Get plenty of rest.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those young people who will like to settle problems so be sure to give an opportunity to do this. Give crossword puzzles and other mental games to work on. Then direct education along artistic or governmental lines and there is bound to be fame in this chart, especially since there is a compassionate nature here. Give a good religious background to feed on. Sports are fine, too.

2 Satellites Are Orbited

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Two new satellites hurtled into wrong but acceptable orbits Wednesday — one to test the Apollo tracking network, the other to probe the sun by creating its own solar eclipses.

Because of a control problem with the second stage of the Delta rocket, the payloads were injected into elliptical rather than the desired circular orbits. Officials said this should not affect either mission.

The two-stage rocket vaulted skyward at 5:45 a.m.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials reported that because of the abnormal orbit, the solar probe at first was not in the proper attitude to aim its six experiments at the sun. But ground stations, using emergency procedures, sent steering signals to realign the craft.

"I am confident we can meet mission objectives ful'y," said mission official Bob Davis.

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to make sure that you do nothing to upset any present conditions. There is considerable likelihood you will be eager to make some changes but be sure not to do anything that would be indiscreet and unwise. Use your best judgment every way.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You find it difficult to persuade a good friend so make your own plan for improving your present situation. Assist others who are in need. Count your blessings. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take the time to asist good pals. The social could bring trouble if you are not alert. Don't jeopardize friendship of a vital contact. Study a personal matter more thoroughly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't take any risks where career work is concerned or you could get in trouble. Seek advice from experts and then become more proficient at your work. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Obtain the knowledge you need for newcomers who are experts in your field of endeavor. Seek new interest. Don't waste time with one who is annoying and superficial.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how best to eliminate responsibilities you have. Your hunches are not very good today, so forget them. Use your best judgment and all is fine. Relax this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept.22) Many problematical affairs come up with associates so use tact and all works out just fine. Be exact in keeping promises with others. Avoid strife wherever you can. Be alert.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You must complete those jobs you started, so don't try to get away without doing them. Do not argue with co-workers. You can reap the benefits of your labors later on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You want a good time, which is fine provided you stick to proven pleasure. Do not try to force others to go along with you. Find the right creative hobby to enjoy on your vacation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try not to add to problems which family ties already have, but help them instead. Eliminate the root cause of trouble. Make the evening a happy one at home. Be poised.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Exercise much care in motion and avoid trouble. Think twice before you speak. Don't forget to count the change when you go out shopping. Use your own judgment when making purchases.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Engage in financial affairs that are important right now. Plan how to best repair your property so that it will be worth much more. Economy should be the keynote right now. Be wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Not a good day for entertaining. Make sure you do not get together with a person who can bring trouble into your life. Improve your appearance and health. Get plenty of rest.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those young people who will like to settle problems so be sure to give an opportunity to do this. Give crossword puzzles and other mental games to work on. Then direct education along artistic or governmental lines and there is bound to be fame in this chart, especially since there is a compassionate nature here. Give a good religious background to feed on. Sports are fine for sublimation.

Defeatist

Vandalism is a public disgrace and an expensive one, both in the financial loss it represents and the moral poverty it denotes. Vandals desecrate churches and cemeteries, deface statues and public buildings, wreck schools.

Their senseless acts of destruction betray a mental malignancy which must be treated at its roots, rather than at its flowering.

But in New York City, where vandals cost the Board of Education more than a million dollars a year in broken school windows, the problem is being attacked in a peculiar way. The board is planning new schools without windows and installing unbreakable glass in old ones.

The vandals already have broken some of the "unbreakable" panes by removing the protective coating with knives before throwing their bricks, and they may be expected to find some outlet for their wanton behavior in the new windowless classrooms, too.

Aside from being ineffective, the New York school board's move against vandalism sounds less like a declaration of war than an unconditional surrender.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The trouble with you, the financial manager of your household, is that you want a better standard of living and security at the same time.

Quite often they engage you in a tug-o-war. You know that you have the down payment for a big car. But should you really so indulge yourself?

Think back a few years ago when things were lean. You told yourself that as soon as you got a bundle of cash together you were going to splurge. And now you have the bundle.

So what do you do? You deny yourself. Your affluence is not easy to accept. You feel insecure. You decide against the big car and instead you trade down to a compact. And you might even increase your insurance.

But the battle between comfort and security isn't over that easily. You install an air-conditioner.

This is a generalization of what has been occurring in thousands of households. It isn't fiction. Both compacts and automobile air-conditioning are among the hottest consumer items in years.

To George Katona, the dean of behavioral economists, this battle is one of the outstanding characteristics of modern life.

The pervasiveness of this feeling permits Katona, one of the founders of the famous Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, to forecast a continuation of a high savings rate well into the 1970s.

Currently the rate is about 8.4 per cent of take home pay, the highest in 25 years and a figure that most economists believe cannot be maintained for long. A variety of factors, they say, will bring it down to "normal," or somewhere between 4.5 per cent and 6.5 per cent.

But, says Katona, "The surge in the savings rate is not just because of the recession. It will remain because of general insecurity. It will not stay at 8.4 per cent but it will be higher in the 1970s than 10 years before.

"In relation to our grandfathers and to foreigners we are rich," Katona explains. "But we are not rich in our own view. Even those making $20,000 to $25,000 don't feel rich. They budget carefully. They must always compromise."

And compromise, you will remember, is what you used to do when you were poor and swore that you wouldn't do when you became richer. But insecurity, it seems, is the shadow of riches.

That shadow is not associated solely with financical matters either, Katona reminds, but includes distress about the whole range of social problems—poverty, pollution, war, racism and so on. Feelings about the dollar and about one's fellow man cannot be divorced in studying consumer attitudes, he argues. The study is of a whole rather than fragments.

And while confessing that there is a misconception also about his own area of expertise—it is not a science, he says, but an art with scientific ingredients—he hazards this forecast for the immediate future:

Less inflation; a slow reduction of unemployment "but no disappearance of it;" and insecurity.

Italian Judge?

By JEFFERY HART

The sudden opportunity for President Nixon to fill two more vacancies on the Supreme Court had led to a virtual riot of categorical speculation. He himself has repeatedly said that he wants to appoint a "strict constructionist" — a conservative — who is also a Southerner, which is a good description of Rep. Richard Poff of Virginia.

Still in his 40s, long a member of the House Judiciary Committee, and a thoughtful student both of the Constitution and of the American legal system, Rep. Poff would be a superb judge. He is respected by his liberal colleagues and, who knows, even Birch Bayh might smile upon him.

But what about the second seat, now vacated by Justice John Marshall Harlan? Should it go to a woman? A good argument can be made that it should.

Still, while we are at it, why not an Italian? It is often argued that the representation of the nation's various minorities on the Court has an important symbolic value: they are included at the highest level and given a visible symbol of outstanding achievement. For many years there was a so-called Jewish seat on the Court, filled by Brandeis, Cardozo, Frankfurter, Goldberg, and Fortas. President Johnson's selection of a Negro, Thurgood Marshall, was correctly viewed as a symbolic act of great importance, complementing the recognition, admittedly tardy, of the Negro's place in the American spectrum. The Irish have been and are represented on the Court, not to mention the Presidency. But the Italian minority is the outstanding example of non-representation.

In addition to the symbolic argument, there are strong political arguments in favor of Nixon naming an Italian to the Court. Long a part of the New Deal coalition, along with the urban Irish, the Italians since 1952 have been trending Republican and conservative. In 1952 and 1956,. the Italian precincts, usually located in the important large electoral vote states, broke with the Democrats to vote for Dwight Eisenhower. In 1960, this trend was interrupted by the nomination of John F. Kennedy, a Catholic. Kennedy's nomination, indeed, was urged by many Democratic leaders as a conscious ploy to recapture the vital Catholic component of the Democratic coalition.

In 1960, the ploy worked, but probably for the last time. By 1964, the Irish and the Italians were moving rightward again. In New York, for example, Irish, German and Italian districts that were heavily Catholic gave Barry Goldwater a higher share of the vote than they had given to Nixon in 1960. In 1968, the surburban Italians tended to vote for Nixon, though there was some blue-collar support for Wallace.

Italians, along with the Irish, are prominent in New York's Conservative Party. Indeed, John Lindsay is mayor of New York today because two Italians, John Marchi and Mario Procaccino, split the anti-liberal vote. If he had run against a single Italian, Lindsay would have been retired. Today, whether working class or middle class, Italians are socially conservative and increasingly alienated from a Democratic party pitching its appeal in terms of Ghetto, Kids and schematic liberalism.

And so the moment is ripe both politically and sociologically for a Court seat for the Italian minority. The Italians are as fed up with the Mafia identification as they are with silk-stocking liberalism, and Nixon would reap substantial political rewards by naming an able Italian to the Court.

The man at the next desk says hurricanes should be named, not after women, but after our windier politicians.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A swelling on my wrist has been growing larger and I am beginning to get that uncomfortable feeling that this may be cancerous.

Mr. T. G., Md.

Dear Mr. T.: The best way to rid yourself of such a fear is to come face to face with the reality that your wrist should be seen by a doctor.

I do not mean to be presumptuous when, without examination, I suggest that you probably have a cyst or a ganglion that so commonly occurs on the wrist.

These are benign, noncancerous conditions which usually cause no interference with the function of the wrist. Rather they are a nuisance, and cosmetically disturbing.

Years ago they were treated by banging a Bible and rupturing the cyst. The reason the Bible was used was because it was the biggest and fattest book in the house.

This practice has stopped becauses the cystic ganglions come back and may even be more difficult to remove once they are ruptured by the big book technique.

Can rabbit fever be caused by eating the rabbits in any form?

Mr. Y. J., Ala.

Dear Mr. J.: Rabbit fever, or tularemia, is a disease that is rarely transmitted to humans who eat rabbits or other wild game that is very thoroughly cooked before being eaten.

In most instances this disease occurs in humans who hunt, butcher and skin rabbits or other animals that are infected.

People who handle wild rabbits also are warned to avoid flies that have been on the animal. The bite of these blood-sucking insects spreads rabbit fever to the animals.

A vaccine is available against tularemia. It should be given to everyone who handles wild birds, rabbits or other animals. The disease if it does occur, responds readily to the intensive use of many of the modern antiboitics.

What is a frozen section examination? When is it done?

Mrs. K. N., Mich.

Dear Mrs. N.: All tissue removed during surgery is sent to the laboratory for miscroscopic examination. A report is usually finished in two or three days.

However surgeons may at times — especially during operations on the breasts — remove a portion of the tumor for immediate examination. The extent of their surgery will be determined by what is found.

TODAY In History

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — In a tinder box of sectarian hatred like Belfast, a riot erupts from a trivial spark.

A schoolboy's stone glancing off a police prowl car or a badly aimed gelignite bomb bursting harmlessly near a British army patrol swiftly ignites street-fighting passions.

Northern Ireland's Protestant-based government on Aug. 9 ordered the internment without trial of terrorist suspects. Spokesmen for the Roman Catholic minority contend this is aimed exclusively at them. In any event, riots have been a daily affair according to the police and army.

An outbreak can be a brief skirmish or an ugly clash stretching over several hours and causing thousands of dollars in damage.

On any day in Belfast, trouble is not hard to find.

Take the Catholic New Lodge area at 3:10 one afternoon.

A British army patrol, each trooper hefting a high-velocity rifle that can kill at 600 yards, tramps past a block of new apartments. A sudden burst of shots and a nail bomb are aimed at the soldiers.

Within minutes, surrounding streets are full of kids, and a few adults, pelting the soldiers as they try to locate sniper nests.

A volley of rubber bullets—big enough to inflict a nasty bruise but not lethal—disperses the children.

Order is restored within minutes and while the more daring youngsters pick through the debris and broken glass from shattered windows, for rubber bullets—prized souvenirs—an army snatch squad collars two Catholic youths they suspect have thrown the nail bomb.

They submit to a search with a "snifter," an army device which can detect traces of gelignite on a man's hands or in the lining of his pockets.

Both are "clean." The patrol commander orders their release. The youths walk off, thanking the army for its courtesy. The lieutenant thanks them for their cooperation.

It's all over in 15 minutes.

In Protestant Ardilea, which borders the bottom of the Roman Catholic Ardoyne, troops and men of the Royal Ulster Constabulary are trying to contain a more inflammatory situation.

Children leaving a Protestant primary school have been stoned by Catholic youngsters and are retaliating. Adults join in.

While the stones fly, terrorists lob three gelignite bombs into the school, blowing out front windows and shattering classrooms. A textile factory is set alight and it takes armored cars and squads of constabulary to separate the combatants.

Later, under the noses of the security forces, a gas station is bombed.

Behind a cordon of troops is a mob of angry Protestants, shaking fists at the Catholic border and threatening reprisals. After dark, hours later, a couple of hundred troops are still on the spot to make sure the Protestants stay in their own encampment.

Protestants, fearing Catholic raids, are standing talking quietly in small clusters at the doors of their homes.

They give vent to the frustration by a lightning sortie down a Catholic side street almost surrounded by Protestant homes.

Yelling youths warn the Catholic families huddling nervously inside: "Get out while you can or be burned out."

The army posts jeeps at the end of the street—a dead end—to insure the Protestants don't get a chance to carry out their threat.

A soldier comments that a single stone thrown by a 10-year-old boy might disrupt the whole area again.

Legislature Report

By MYRL H. SHOEMAKER
State Representative

An interim appropriations bill, H. B. 986, to carry the state through September was approved by the House and Senate Tuesday of this week. But, there was a split on a controversial provision to provide emergency funding for schools facing bankruptcy.

The House put in the emergency funding provision over strong objections from some members, who argued that it would give voters an excuse for voting down school levies. The provision was removed in the Senate Finance Committee on a bipartisan vote of 6-3. No attempt was made to reinsert it on the floor.

Also deleted from the House-passed bill, was language limiting instructional fees at state universities, community colleges, technical institutes academic centers and university branches.

This is the third bill dealing with appropriations for September. The legislature made a 10-day appropriations (S.B. 424) and then extended the spending authority to the end of the month (S.B. 430). However, a special appropriations is not needed if the state is to meet its September school foundations and welfare payments.

The House version appropriates $151.5 million, which includes $44.9 million for schools and $46.6 million for welfare. The Senate reduced this by $2,750,000 with the deletion of the emergency fund for financially troubled schools. The fund, against which schools can borrow if they have a levy on the ballot by November 10, is intended to help about 12 districts that may have to close before November.

Senators approved their version of the appropriations bill by a vote of 23-8. The House version passed earlier in the day by a vote of 71-6. Floor debate in the Senate was limited to a short speech from each side of the aisle.

The Conference Committee restored a modified version of the school advance program passed in the Ohio House, but originally deleted in the Senate. In addition, the Conference Committee restored the ceiling on university tuition which was also deleted in the Senate.

The Ohio House, Wednesday, passed a bill that would specify that the procedure for appealing suspension of an operator's license for refusal to take a blood alcohol test under the implied consent law, is also applicable.

The purpose of the bill is to make it clear that a non-resident operator, whose Ohio driving probileges have been suspended under the implied consent law, has the same right to review and a stay of suspension pending review as does a resident.

Another bill that passed Wednesday, would eliminate the necessity for issuing arrest warrants against a corporation for violation of the fish and game laws.

The purpose of the bill is to make it easier to bring a criminal action against a corporation for violation of the fish and game laws. This would be done by eliminating the technically impossible requirement that the corporation be arrested. Also, it was brought out by the committee, that some court clerks refuse to issue both a warrant and a summons on the same accused. Since both are now required if a corporation is to be prosecuted for violations of the fish and game laws, a clerk's refusal to issue both blocks the prosecution.

In another measure, the House passed a bill that would change the time for release of a motor vehicle accident financial responsibility security deposit from two years after the date of the deposit, to two years after the date of the accident.

The purpose of this bill is to allow earlier return to the depositor of moneys deposited with the state to meet the requirements of the financial responsibility law.

Defeatist

Vandalism is a public disgrace and an expensive one, both in the financial loss it represents and the moral poverty it denotes. Vandals desecrate churches and cemeteries, deface statues and public buildings, wreck schools.

Their senseless acts of destruction betray a mental malignancy which must be treated at its roots, rather than at its flowering.

But in New York City, where vandals cost the Board of Education more than a million dollars a year in broken school windows, the problem is being attacked in a peculiar way. The board is planning new schools without windows and installing unbreakable glass in old ones.

The vandals already have broken some of the "unbreakable" panes by removing the protective coating with knives before throwing their bricks, and they may be expected to find some outlet for their wanton behavior in the new windowless classrooms, too.

Aside from being ineffective, the New York school board's move against vandalism sounds less like a declaration of war than an unconditional surrender.

NEW YORK (AP) — The trouble with you, the financial manager of your household, is that you want a better standard of living and security at the same time.

Quite often they engage you in a tug-o-war. You know that you have the down payment for a big car. But should you really so indulge yourself?

Italian Judge?

By JEFFERY HART

The sudden opportunity for President Nixon to fill two more vacancies on the Supreme Court had led to a virtual riot of categorical speculation. He himself has repeatedly said that he wants to appoint a "strict constructionist" — a conservative — who is also a Southerner, which is a good description of Rep. Richard Poff of Virginia.

Still in his 40s, long a member of the House Judiciary Committee, and a thoughtful student both of the Constitution and of the American legal system, Rep. Poff would be a superb judge. He is respected by his liberal colleagues and, who knows, even Birch Bayh might smile upon him.

But what about the second seat, now vacated by Justice John Marshall Harlan? Should it go to a woman? A good argument can be made that it should.

Still, while we are at it, why not an Italian? It is often argued that the representation of the nation's various minorities on the Court has an important symbolic value: they are included at the highest level and given a visible symbol of outstanding achievement. For many years there was a so-called Jewish seat on the Court, filled by Brandeis, Cardozo, Frankfurter, Goldberg, and Fortas. President Johnson's selection of a Negro, Thurgood Marshall, was correctly viewed as a symbolic act of great importance, complementing the recognition, admittedly tardy, of the Negro's place in the American spectrum. The Irish have been and are represented on the Court, not to mention the Presidency. But the Italian minority is the outstanding example of non-representation.

In addition to the symbolic argument, there are strong political arguments in favor of Nixon naming an Italian to the Court. Long a part of the New Deal coalition, along with the urban Irish, the Italians since 1952 have been trending Republican and conservative. In 1952 and 1956,. the Italian precincts, usually located in the important large electoral vote states, broke with the Democrats to vote for Dwight Eisenhower. In 1960, this trend was interrupted by the nomination of John F. Kennedy, a Catholic. Kennedy's nomination, indeed, was urged by many Democratic leaders as a conscious ploy to recapture the vital Catholic component of the Democratic coalition.

In 1960, the ploy worked, but probably for the last time. By 1964, the Irish and the Italians were moving rightward again. In New York, for example, Irish, German and Italian districts that were heavily Catholic gave Barry Goldwater a higher share of the vote than they had given to Nixon in 1960. In 1968, the surburban Italians tended to vote for Nixon, though there was some blue-collar support for Wallace.

Italians, along with the Irish, are prominent in New York's Conservative Party. Indeed, John Lindsay is mayor of New York today because two Italians, John Marchi and Mario Procaccino, split the anti-liberal vote. If he had run against a single Italian, Lindsay would have been retired. Today, whether working class or middle class, Italians are socially conservative and increasingly alienated from a Democratic party pitching its appeal in terms of Ghetto, Kids and schematic liberalism.

And so the moment is ripe both politically and sociologically for a Court seat for the Italian minority. The Italians are as fed up with the Mafia identification as they are with silk-stocking liberalism, and Nixon would reap substantial political rewards by naming an able Italian to the Court.

The man at the next desk says hurricanes should be named, not after women, but after our windier politicians.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A swelling on my wrist has been growing larger and I am beginning to get that uncomfortable feeling that this may be cancerous.

Mr. T. G., Md.

Dear Mr. T.: The best way to rid yourself of such a fear is to come face to face with the reality that your wrist should be seen by a doctor.

I do not mean to be presumptuous when, without examination, I suggest that you probably have a cyst or a ganglion that so commonly occurs on the wrist.

These are benign, noncancerous conditions which usually cause no interference with the function of the wrist. Rather they are a nuisance, and cosmetically disturbing.

Years ago they were treated by banging a Bible and rupturing the cyst. The reason the Bible was used was because it was the biggest and fattest book in the house.

This practice has stopped becauses the cystic ganglions come back and may even be more difficult to remove once they are ruptured by the big book technique.

Can rabbit fever be caused by eating the rabbits in any form?

Mr. Y. J., Ala.

Dear Mr. J.: Rabbit fever, or tularemia, is a disease that is rarely transmitted to humans who eat rabbits or other wild game that is very thoroughly cooked before being eaten.

In most instances this disease occurs in humans who hunt, butcher and skin rabbits or other animals that are infected.

People who handle wild rabbits also are warned to avoid flies that have been on the animal. The bite of these blood-sucking insects spreads rabbit fever to the animals.

A vaccine is available against tularemia. It should be given to everyone who handles wild birds, rabbits or other animals. The disease if it does occur, responds readily to the intensive use of many of the modern antiboitics.

What is a frozen section examination? When is it done?

Mrs. K. N., Mich.

Dear Mrs. N.: All tissue removed during surgery is sent to the laboratory for miscroscopic examination. A report is usually finished in two or three days.

However surgeons may at times — especially during operations on the breasts — remove a portion of the tumor for immediate examination. The extent of their surgery will be determined by what is found.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Sept. 30, the 273rd day of 1971. There are 92 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1946, an international military tribunal in Nuernberg, Germany, found 22 top German Nazi leaders guilty of war crimes. Eleven were sentenced to death.

On this date:

In 1787, the 212-ton ship Columbia sailed from Boston. It became the first American ship to sail around the world.

In 1846, ether was used for the first time as an anesthetic—by a dentist in Boston, Dr. William Morton.

In 1882, the first hydroelectric power station in the United States was opened at Appleton, Wis.

In 1913, the U.S. Army reported it had 17 airplanes in operation.

In 1953, President Dwight D. Eisenhower appointed Gov. Earl Warren of California chief justice of the United States.

In 1954, the first atomic-powered vessel, the submarine Nautilus, was commissioned by the U.S. Navy.

Ten years ago: China's Premier Chou En-lai said his nation wanted good relations with all countries, including the United States.

Five years ago: Nazi war criminals Baldur von Schirach and Albert Speer were released from West Berlin's Spandau prison, leaving Rudolf Hess as the only prisoner in the prison.

One year ago: Picture-telephone service was begun in Pittsburgh.

We've just learned that the scientific name for the tent caterpillar is "Malacosama American." This proves that no matter what you think about the little pests they're really fellow citizens.

Derby

Mrs. Georgia Sweet
896-2462

To the relatives of Mr. George Graham, who passed away on Tuesday in Madison County Hospital goes the deepest most heartfelt sympathy of the Derby community. Mr. Graham was held in very high regard by all his friends and neighbors and all others who knew him.

He was a farmer in the Derby area for many years and moved to town upon retirement. On doing so, he became such a great part of the local scene we have all grown accustomed to seeing the familiar figure on his front porch or the local post office. Thus, we shall miss him. Mr. Graham was 87.

Mrs. Louise White, who has been a patient at Doctor's Hospital the past week, is improving and hopes to be able to come home very soon. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Miss Barbara Scribner of Route 1. Orient and Darrell Vaughn were united in marriage Sept. 18 at Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church in Columbus. Both are students at Ohio State University.

Birthday greetings to: Roy Waterman, Sept. 23; Charles Brown, Sept. 26; Terry Tobin, Sept. 29; Mary Tobin, Eleanor Ingman, Sept. 30; Jeanne Lett, Oct. 1, Edgar Eades, Kelly Steinhauser, Karen Steinhauser, Oct. 2.

Anniversaries: Mr. and Mrs. Franklin French, Sept. 26; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Linton, Sept. 30; Mr. and Mrs. Irus Bliss and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Immell, Oct. 1; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Oct. 2.

CBS President Attacks FCC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission's investigations of U.S. broadcast media are intimidating news operations and jeopardizing the public interest, the president of CBS said Wednesday.

In one case, Frank Stanton told a Senate subcommittee investigating freedom of the press, the FCC studied 28 pages of correspondence covering a five-month period before agreeing with CBS that a nine-minute program on bullfighting was not so controversial that it justified a request for equal time from opponents of the broadcast.

"As commission scrutiny over our judgments intensifies," Stanton said, "prolonged administrative and judicial proceedings are inevitable." He noted that a number of matters involving the Fairness Doctrine are also in the courts where a judgment could "adversely affect broadcasters' ability to provide fair, balanced and meaningful coverage of public issues."

Community United Methodist Church Setting For Cook-Susor Marriage

MRS. ROBERT JAMES SUSOR

Miss Lindsey Diane Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Cook, 131 Park Place and Mr. Robert James Susor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Susor, Oregon, Ohio were united in marriage on Saturday, Sept. 11th, in Community United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Paul I. Wachs performed the double ring ceremony before the altar adorned with two seven branch candelabra, cathedral baskets of white mums and gladioli, and baskets of huckleberry. A matching arrangement of mums and gladioli graced the altar table. The pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. Steve Thomas, organist, and Mrs. Larry Graham, soloist, presented a program of music preceding the ceremony. Mrs. Graham sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding a white satin peau de soie princess line gown with bishop sleeves and a high neckline. A panel of tucking on Venice lace accented with petite buttons trimmed the front of the gown and the sweep train flowed gracefully to chapel length. A face-framing arrangement of organza petals and lace accented with seed pearls held the two tiered elbow length veil of imported silk English illusion. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white stephanotis and white cattleya orchids with shattered carnations intertwined with long satin streamers.

Miss Ann Cook, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Other bridal attendants included Mrs. William A. Cook, sister-in-law of the bride; Columbus; Miss Susan Susor, sister of the groom; Oregon, Ohio; Nancy Gibson, Columbus and Miss Barbara McDill, Williamsport.

The attendants were dressed alike in two-toned navy and white gowns. The navy chiffon bodice featured long sheer sleeves and a wide bow at the neckline. The white faille skirt was defined at the waistline by a matching cummerbund. The attendants headpieces were navy double Dior bows with matching short pouf illusion veils.

Miss Tracy Lin Cook served her aunt as flower girl in a white floor length organdy gown trimmed with white lace and navy ribbon around the yoke and hemline.

Mr. Fred Susor performed the duties of best man for his brother. Ushers were Mr. William A. Cook, brother of the bride, Columbus; Mr. Barry Ramlow, Oregon, Ohio and Mr. Steve Russell, Newark, Delaware. Master William Randall Cook, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

Mrs. Cook was attired in a bright raspberry pleated chiffon dress with a full skirt trimmed with wide matching lace at the hem. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of rose colored cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Susor wore a lime green princess line dress with embroidered forest green lace trimming the neck, sleeves and hemline. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

A reception at the Elks Lodge immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered white wedding cake topped with an arrangement of red sweetheart roses and white mums, and encircled with huckleberry greenery, red roses and white mums. Matching arrangements of red roses and white mums with candles were placed at either side of the cake.

The entire ballroom was decorated in red and white. Hostesses were Miss Cheryl Kaulmeyer, Miss Diann Spieles, Miss Diane Hoersten, Columbus and Miss Karen Johnson, Middleport.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Kathryn Waldenmaier of Des Plaines, Ill.

The bride is a graduate of Circleville High School and is currently a senior at the Ohio State University. Mr. Susor, also a senior at the Ohio State University, is employed as a field executive for National Automotive Parts Association in Grandview.

The couple now resides at 1401 Broadview Ave., Apt. 17, Columbus.

Pickaway County WCTU Holds 81st Convention

Pickaway County Women's Christian Temperance Union held its 81st Convention recently in Salem United Methodist Church with Salem WCTU members as hosts.

Mrs. Nona Hankins, county president, read the 96th Psalm and used as the theme for the convention "Thou, O Lord, Art The Same, Thy Years Have No End."

Mrs. Helen Knece led in singing hymns with Jane Barr accompanying at the piano.

Due to the absence of Rev. Spears, Five Points president, Mrs. Ethel Furniss used as the devotion theme, "Noble Christians" following with meditation and prayer.

Mrs. Opal Hott of Walnut Twp. led the pledges to the American and Temperance flags.

Mrs. Hankins welcomed guests from New Lexington, Somerset and Lancaster by reading the poem "On Life's Busy Thoroughfares We Meet With Angels Unawares." Mrs. Vivian Elick presented the reading "My Old Hat."

"Challenging Decisions For Today's World" was the theme for the 25th Triennial World's WCTU Convention held in Chicago. Mrs. Hankins told of the presentation of the 500 youth pageant "Reach Out." The youth challenged the audience in pictures, actions and words to reach out to God and to others in hope, trust, truth, concern, love, peace, praise and joy. The presentation included an illuminated picture of Christ and a lift-off sequence complete with count-down and puffs of smoke. Narrator was Mrs. Allison Kennedy from northern Ireland.

Mrs. Vivian Elick and Mrs. Helen Knece sang "Fill My Cup Lord" and Mrs. Elick said the noon prayer.

The afternoon session began with a short devotion period by Mrs. Elick, president from Perry County, followed by a memorial service for seven deceased members by Miss Laura Long of Five Points Union, Mt. Sterling.

Mrs. Ruth Wyreck of Lancaster and Mrs. Knece gave the reading "The Land And Lord."

Officers for 1971-72 were installed by Mrs. Garnet Porter, chairman of the executive committee. They are Mrs. Helen Knece, president; Mrs. Nona Hankins, vice president; Mrs. Mabel Stoer, recording secretary; Mrs. Vera Rife, promotion secretary and Mrs. Ruth Woolever, treasurer.

Mrs. Hankins was presented a Life Patron Pledge for the Ohio State WCTU for serving five years as county president.

Reports from directors were heard and the convention closed with prayer and benediction.

General Guild Holds Forum

Berger Hospital General Guild forum was held Thursday in the guild room of the hospital. Representatives from 25 guilds were present for the meeting.

Mrs. William Myers, president, conducted the business meeting. Introduced were the new recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Cole and the new treasurer, Mrs. Robert Scherer, who filled vacancies created during the summer.

A report of the Spring Lawn Festival was given by chairman, Mrs. Richard Jeffries. It was decided that a Lawn Festival will again be held in the spring of 1972.

Mrs. Randolph Clark announced the annual Christmas Bazaar to be held on Nov. 19th at the Lutheran Parish House. Mrs. Leonard Hoffman of guild 31 distributed Money Tree tickets to chairmen of individual guilds.

It was announced that the Gift Shop Tea will be held at the Episcopal Parish House on Dec. 2nd and 3rd.

The Red Cross has asked for volunteers among guild members to mend hospital linens. Anyone interested in helping is urged to contact Mrs. Wolford at the Red Cross office.

Refreshments were served following the meeting by guild 45.

Bent candles can be straightened by wrapping each one in a plastic food bag, holding the bag under hot water and then rolling the softened candle on a table top.

Community United Methodist Church Setting For Cook-Susor Marriage

MRS. ROBERT JAMES SUSOR

Miss Lindsey Diane Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Cook, 131 Park Place and Mr. Robert James Susor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Susor, Oregon, Ohio were united in marriage on Saturday, Sept. 11th, in Community United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Paul I. Wachs performed the double ring ceremony before the altar adorned with two seven branch candelabra, cathedral baskets of white mums and gladioli, and baskets of huckleberry. A matching arrangement of mums and gladioli graced the altar table. The pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. Steve Thomas, organist, and Mrs. Larry Graham, soloist, presented a program of music preceding the ceremony. Mrs. Graham sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding a white satin peau de soie princess line gown with bishop sleeves and a high neckline. A panel of tucking on Venice lace accented with petite buttons trimmed the front of the gown and the sweep train flowed gracefully to chapel length. A face-framing arrangement of organza petals and lace accented with seed pearls held the two tiered elbow length veil of imported silk English illusion. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white stephanotis and white cattleya orchids with shattered carnations intertwined with long satin streamers.

Miss Ann Cook, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Other bridal attendants included Mrs. William A. Cook, sister-in-law of the bride; Columbus; Miss Susan Susor, sister of the groom; Oregon, Ohio; Nancy Gibson, Columbus and Miss Barbara McDill, Williamsport.

The attendants were dressed alike in two-toned navy and white gowns. The navy chiffon bodice featured long sheer sleeves and a wide bow at the neckline. The white faille skirt was defined at the waistline by a matching cummerbund. The attendants headpieces were navy double Dior bows with matching short pouf illusion veils.

Miss Tracy Lin Cook served her aunt as flower girl in a white floor length organdy gown trimmed with white lace and navy ribbon around the yoke and hemline.

Mr. Fred Susor performed the duties of best man for his brother. Ushers were Mr. William A. Cook, brother of the bride, Columbus; Mr. Barry Ramlow, Oregon, Ohio and Mr. Steve Russell, Newark, Delaware. Master William Randall Cook, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

Mrs. Cook was attired in a bright raspberry pleated chiffon dress with a full skirt trimmed with wide matching lace at the hem. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of rose colored cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Susor wore a lime green princess line dress with embroidered forest green lace trimming the neck, sleeves and hemline. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

A reception at the Elks Lodge immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered white wedding cake topped with an arrangement of red sweetheart roses and white mums, and encircled with huckleberry greenery, red roses and white mums. Matching arrangements of red roses and white mums with candles were placed at either side of the cake.

The entire ballroom was decorated in red and white. Hostesses were Miss Cheryl Kaulmeyer, Miss Diann Spieles, Miss Diane Hoersten, Columbus and Miss Karen Johnson, Middleport.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Kathryn Waldenmaier of Des Plaines, Ill.

The bride is a graduate of Circleville High School and is currently a senior at the Ohio State University. Mr. Susor, also a senior at the Ohio State University, is employed as a field executive for National Automotive Parts Association in Grandview.

The couple now resides at 1401 Broadview Ave., Apt. 17, Columbus.

Pickaway County WCTU Holds 81st Convention

Pickaway County Women's Christian Temperance Union held its 81st Convention recently in Salem United Methodist Church with Salem WCTU members as hosts.

Mrs. Nona Hankins, county president, read the 96th Psalm and used as the theme for the convention "Thou, O Lord, Art The Same, Thy Years Have No End."

Mrs. Helen Knece led in singing hymns with Jane Barr accompanying at the piano.

Due to the absence of Rev. Spears, Five Points president, Mrs. Ethel Furniss used as the devotion theme, "Noble Christians" following with meditation and prayer.

Mrs. Opal Hott of Walnut Twp. led the pledges to the American and Temperance flags.

Mrs. Hankins welcomed guests from New Lexington, Somerset and Lancaster by reading the poem "On Life's Busy Thoroughfares We Meet With Angels Unawares." Mrs. Vivian Elick presented the reading "My Old Hat."

"Challenging Decisions For Today's World" was the theme for the 25th Triennial World's WCTU Convention held in Chicago. Mrs. Hankins told of the presentation of the 500 youth pageant "Reach Out." The youth challenged the audience in pictures, actions and words to reach out to God and to others in hope, trust, truth, concern, love, peace, praise and joy. The presentation included an illuminated picture of Christ and a lift-off sequence complete with count-down and puffs of smoke. Narrator was Mrs. Allison Kennedy from northern Ireland.

Mrs. Vivian Elick and Mrs. Helen Knece sang "Fill My Cup Lord" and Mrs. Elick said the noon prayer.

The afternoon session began with a short devotion period by Mrs. Elick, president from Perry County, followed by a memorial service for seven deceased members by Miss Laura Long of Five Points Union, Mt. Sterling.

Mrs. Ruth Wyreck of Lancaster and Mrs. Knece gave the reading "The Land And Lord."

Officers for 1971-72 were installed by Mrs. Garnet Porter, chairman of the executive committee. They are Mrs. Helen Knece, president; Mrs. Nona Hankins, vice president; Mrs. Mabel Stoer, recording secretary; Mrs. Vera Rife, promotion secretary and Mrs. Ruth Woolever, treasurer.

Mrs. Hankins was presented a Life Patron Pledge for the Ohio State WCTU for serving five years as county president.

Reports from directors were heard and the convention closed with prayer and benediction.

Guest Speaker Addresses AAUW Chapter

The Circleville Branch of the American Association of University Women held its September meeting Tuesday in Community United Methodist Church.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Albert E. Heierman, associate general chairman of the Scioto Society Development Fund. Mr. Heierman has his masters degree from Purdue University and is the Engineers Services Manager at Mead Corp. in Chillicothe.

Mr. Heierman spoke on the progress of the amphitheater being built at Sugarloaf Mountain near Chillicothe where the outdoor drama, "Tecumseh," will be performed. The play, is being written by Allan W. Eckert, author if "The Frontiersman."

Through a series of slides of other outdoor theaters in our country, Mr. Heierman pointed out some of the aspects of the outdoor theater near here. Sixteen hundred seats, rain shelters and concession stands at the rear of the theater, and seven stages are a few of these. He stated that hopefully the drama will open in June, 1972.

During the business meeting, one new member and several guests were introduced. The officers for this year were also introduced. Members were invited to attend any of the study groups now available, literature, morning literature, drama, music, new members, and circulating books.

Miss Sheryl Wood was chairman of the hostess committee for the annual carry-in dessert where each member brings her favorite dessert. Other members of the hostess committee were Mrs. Clifford Bowser, Mrs. Lois Brobst, Mrs. John Dunlap, Miss Carolyn Fudge, Mrs. George Hamrick, Mrs. Carl Heffelfinger, Mrs. Kenneth Knox, Mrs. Paul Teegardin, and Miss Mary Walters.

Farm Bureau Women Meet

Pickaway County Farm Bureau Women's Committee met recently to plan fall activities.

The State Rally on Oct. 12 will be held at Veterans Memorial Auditorium in Columbus and will feature Dale Evans as main speaker. Tickets may be purchased at the Farm Bureau Office by Oct. 1st. The group plans to travel together to the meeting. Women who want to travel with the group may meet at the Farm Bureau Office at 9 a.m. on October 12th.

The Third Annual Rabies Clinic was scheduled by the group for Sunday, Nov. 14th from 1 until 5 p.m. Six locations around the county are planned. Members of the Farm Bureau will assist at the clinic locations.

Mrs. David Drum, Miss Mary Clark, Mrs. Jerry Wolford, Mrs. Ned Kraft, Mrs. John Stevenson and organization director Tom Ellifritz attended the meeting.

Five Points WCTU To Meet Wednesday

Women's Society of Christian Service of Five Points United Methodist Church will meet 7 p.m. Wednesday in the church basement.

A brief business session will be to discuss plans for a Turkey Supper on Oct. 16th. They will then go to the Mt. Sterling Methodist Church as guests of its WSCS.

A tablespoon of lemon juice added to the egg which is to serve as a coating when frying fish will give the fish a delicious flavor.

UNIFORM EXCHANGE — Mrs. Randolph Clark, shown on the left, receives a Brownie Girl Scout uniform from Mrs. Paul Berrigan. Mothers of Girl Scouts are exchanging the uniforms for other sizes or supplying them for girls who do not have one. They are to be brought to the home of Mrs. Clark, 630 Garden Parkway.

Open House Fetes Couple

MR. AND MRS. BOYD TEEGARDIN

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Teegardin were guests of honor at an open house Sunday in the dining room of the Teays Valley Day Care Center, formerly the Duvall Elementary School.

Eighty people enjoyed the gala event from 6 to 8 p.m. Hosts were their friends in the village of Duvall. Cakes were baked and served by Madge Baum and Madge Triance. Punch was served by Rebecca Baum and Carol Tussing.

At 6:30 Chester Ward presented the Teegardins with a memorable album of pictures. The ordered etching gift did not arrive in time for the party. Mr. Ward made a brief speech outlining the Teegardin's years of service to the community and at this time introduced Mr. and Mrs. Gene Sawyer and Mr. and Mrs. Gale Sawyer, new co-owners of the grain elevator in Duvall.

At 7 p.m. Paul Barch gave an interesting history on the village of Duvall and its developments and tragedies.

Frank Baum displayed several very early pictures of the original grain elevator in Duvall. They were circulated among the guests.

Three of the town's treasured senior citizens, Mrs. Josie Barch, Miss Ethel Baum, and Mrs. Wayne Jinks were present for the event.

A bouquet of red roses, a gift from the Sawyers to the Teegardins, accented the table containing the autograph book where each guest used a page to express friendship to the guests of honor.

Parish Hall Scene Of Farewell Party

Members of Scioto Chapel United Methodist Church and Sunday School, their families and friends met Sunday evening at the Robtown Parish Hall, honoring Mrs. Harold Fee and Miss Nancy Fee. The Fees are moving from this area and will be making their home in Circleville in the near future. For the program Mrs. Elzie Brooks narrated "This Is Your Life".

Mrs. Fee organized the junior church and has been superintendent for the last 10 years. Miss Nancy Fee has been her assistant. Mrs. Fee has served the church in many capacities, as teacher, youth counselor, Sunday School superintendant and president of the Ladies Aid.

Representatives from each class contributed special numbers for the program. A vocal solo was given by Peggy Riffle. Group singing was presented by the various classes. Piano accompaniment was by Miss Mary Ellen Downs. Kim Lindsay presented a piano selection. A poem was said by Perry Fausnaugh representing the pre-school class. Ronald Fausnaugh gave a recitation representing the junior class.

Appreciative comments were made by Miss Linda Fausnaugh and Roger Hott. Mrs. Howard Koch read a poem "To That Mother-Daughter Team". The Rev. John H. Currens presented prayer closing the program.

In appreciation of their faithful service, corsages and a gift for their new home were presented to the honored guests.

Refreshments were served to approximately 60 persons. The candlelit tea table was centered with a white iced cake inscribed in pink with "Thank You, Eloise And Nancy", was presented to the Fees. Arrangements of fall flowers decorated the hall.

Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. Robert Drummond, president of the Women's Society and Mrs. Atlee Davis, Sunday School superintendent.

Yule Season Arrives Early For Decorator

MEADE, Kan. (AP) — Christmas has come early to a Meade residential area.

In an effort to provide a colorful Christmas lighting display each year, residents of the Sunrise Plaza subdivision require the last person to put up his lights to throw a dinner.

Last year, banker Clark Bird was the tardy decorator. He vowed he'd never be caught in the same predicament again.

Sunday, the Birds left for a three-day trip to Colorado.

They returned Wednesday night and 11 of the 12 houses—all but Bird's—were glowing with Christmas lights.

Now Bird gets to play Santa Claus again.

Pope, Mindszenty Open World Synod Of Bishops

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI opened the third World Synod of Bishops today by concelebrating a colorful Mass in the Sistine Chapel. He was joined by Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, the Hungarian primate just given amnesty from a life term in prison.

The synod, to last a month, will deal with the issues of a crisis-ridden priesthood and the Church's role in combating social injustices.

Early soundings among bishop delegates indicate a strong conservative trend on the question of priestly celibacy, the most controversial part of the priesthood discussion. Even such liberal figures as England's John Cardinal Heenan and Canada's Bishop Alexander Carter have displayed great caution in discussing a possible change to a married clergy.

This morning's Mass included the color and pageantry of great liturgy at the Vatican. The 74-year-old pontiff was dressed in his white robes and the bishops in scarlet with gold crosses on their chests.

With the 79-year-old Cardinal Mindszenty as concelebrants were Polish Bishop Wladislaw Rubin, head of the synod secretariat; John Cardinal Wright of the United States, head of the clergy congregation; Leon Cardinal Duval, archbishop of Algiers, and Paolo Cardinal Munoz Vega, archbishop of Quito.

The more than 200 synod delegates—including 142 bishops from six continents, Eastern rite patriarchs, heads of religious orders, monsignors, and priests—joined in dialogue responses to the solemn High Mass, said in Latin.

During the synod, which holds its first formal session Friday, the delegates will probe such issues as: Should the Church ordain married men? Should priests become politicians or engage in other professions? What can be done with the estimated 13,000 men who have doffed their priestly collars to marry?

In the area of social action, some delegates are expected to ask the Church to take some action against the racial separation policies of South Africa and Rhodesia, alleged repression of the clergy in Brazil and the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Court Upholds Tax Reciprocity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The City of Cleveland must continue its income tax reciprocity agreement with a number of suburban communities, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The high court denied a Cleveland appeal, letting stand lower court decisions in a suit filed originally by the City of Aurora, with other Cuyahoga County communities as co-plaintiffs.

The cities sued after Cleveland repealed in September, 1970, the reciprocity provision of its income tax ordinance. The suburbs contended it was that provision which enabled their income taxes to pass.

Real-Life Villains

BROCKFILLE, Ont. (AP) — Recent night-time visitors to the Never-Never Land young people's tourist attraction were not exactly nursery rhyme characters. The gift shop was broken into and $952 worth of transistor radios, toys, costume jewelry, Eskimo figures and other articles were stolen.

Big Ohio Cities Show Increase In Major Crime

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The FBI's uniform crime report for the first six months of this year showed that most of the state's larger cities marked up increases in serious crimes.

The report noted that in the period there were increases in murder and non-negligent homicide in Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo and Dayton with a slight drop in the number in Cleveland and Youngstown.

Robbery, auto theft and burglary also increased in most communities. The FBI report, released by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, said serious crime in the nation increased 7 per cent during the first half of the year compared with an 11 per cent increase during the same period a year ago.

Weather Seekers

LONDON (AP) — Britons are getting more weather conscious. The telephone company operating a "dial-for-forecast" service reported handling 13,250,000 calls in 1970 — almost a million more than in 1969.

Even such liberal figures as England's John Cardinal Heenan and Canada's Bishop Alexander Carter have displayed great caution in discussing a possible change to a married clergy.

This morning's Mass included the color and pageantry of great liturgy at the Vatican. The 74-year-old pontiff was dressed in his white robes and the bishops in scarlet with gold crosses on their chests.

With the 79-year-old Cardinal Mindszenty as concelebrants were Polish Bishop Wladislaw Rubin, head of the synod secretariat; John Cardinal Wright of the United States, head of the clergy congregation; Leon Cardinal Duval, archbishop of Algiers, and Paolo Cardinal Munoz Vega, archbishop of Quito.

The more than 200 synod delegates—including 142 bishops from six continents, Eastern rite patriarchs, heads of religious orders, monsignors, and priests—joined in dialogue responses to the solemn High Mass, said in Latin.

During the synod, which holds its first formal session Friday, the delegates will probe such issues as: Should the Church ordain married men? Should priests become politicians or engage in other professions? What can be done with the estimated 13,000 men who have doffed their priestly collars to marry?

In the area of social action, some delegates are expected to ask the Church to take some action against the racial separation policies of South Africa and Rhodesia, alleged repression of the clergy in Brazil and the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Court Upholds Tax Reciprocity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The City of Cleveland must continue its income tax reciprocity agreement with a number of suburban communities, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The high court denied a Cleveland appeal, letting stand lower court decisions in a suit filed originally by the City of Aurora, with other Cuyahoga County communities as co-plaintiffs.

The cities sued after Cleveland repealed in September, 1970, the reciprocity provision of its income tax ordinance. The suburbs contended it was that provision which enabled their income taxes to pass.

Real-Life Villains

BROCKFILLE, Ont. (AP) — Recent night-time visitors to the Never-Never Land young people's tourist attraction were not exactly nursery rhyme characters. The gift shop was broken into and $952 worth of transistor radios, toys, costume jewelry, Eskimo figures and other articles were stolen.

Big Ohio Cities Show Increase In Major Crime

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The FBI's uniform crime report for the first six months of this year showed that most of the state's larger cities marked up increases in serious crimes.

The report noted that in the period there were increases in murder and non-negligent homicide in Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo and Dayton with a slight drop in the number in Cleveland and Youngstown.

Robbery, auto theft and burglary also increased in most communities. The FBI report, released by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, said serious crime in the nation increased 7 per cent during the first half of the year compared with an 11 per cent increase during the same period a year ago.

Weather Seekers

LONDON (AP) — Britons are getting more weather conscious. The telephone company operating a "dial-for-forecast" service reported handling 13,250,000 calls in 1970 — almost a million more than in 1969.

COTA Meet Date Set

Final plans are being made for the One Hundredth Annual Session of the Central Ohio Teachers Association scheduled for the Franklin County Veterans' Memorial Auditorium in Columbus on Oct. 22. The general session for all teachers is scheduled from 9 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. with departmental meetings scheduled throughout the Central Ohio Area in the afternoon.

Approximately one half million students in the public schools in Champaign, Clark, Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Franklin, Licking, Logan, Madison, Marion, Pickaway, Ross and Union Counties will enjoy the day off while their teachers are participating in professional meetings required by Ohio law.

Central Ohio Teachers Association President Robert C. Kalish announced that over 18,000 programs have been distributed to certificated employes of public schools in the Central Ohio area. Arrangements have been made by President Kalish with Mr. Harry Schrieber, Executive Director, Franklin County Veterans' Memorial Auditorium to accommodate over 6,000 teachers at the general session at which time members of the COTA will be asked to approve revision of the constitution and bylaws.

Featured speaker for the meeting will be Dr. Daniel Fader, Associate Professor in the Department of English at the University of Michigan. Dr. Fader has spoken and written extensively. His most famous publication "Hooked On Books" will soon be followed by "The Naked Children." His conference address "Learning Is Fun" will be keeping with the theme of the day L.S.D. (Learning Should Be Delightful).

Judge Rules For Guard Discharge

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A federal judge has ordered the discharge of an Ohio National Guardsman who declared himself a conscientious objector after the fatal shootings at Kent State University in 1970.

U. S. District Judge William K. Thomas reversed the decision Wednesday of an Army review board which had refused to grant Pvt. Raymond D. Silvey, 24, the discharge in July.

In an 18-page decision, Thomas held there was no basis for the review board's conclusion that "Pvt. Silvey's alleged conscientious objector beliefs are not sincerely held."

Silvey, an Akron computer analyst, was a member of the Akron-based 1st Battalion, 145th infantry that was among guard units sent to Kent State University in May, 1970.

Four students were killed and nine others wounded in a confrontation between guardsmen and antiwar demonstrators on the campus May 4.

"My first reaction, when the shooting occurred, was to cry, and I did so unashamedly," Silvey said. "I then left the ranks . . . and threw down my rifle and declared I wasn't about to take part in any killing."

McCulloch Plans To Seek Re-Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. William McCulloch, R-Ohio, who recently returned to his House seat following a long illness, said Wednesday he expects to seek re-election in 1972 if his health continues to improve.

'I will continue to see that my constituents are properly and well represented," the ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee said.

Election Board At Cincinnati Faces Problem

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Hamilton County Board of Elections is caught in a bind in the unsettled controversy over addition of four judgeships to the county Municipal Court.

The board has been unable to complete orders for ballots for the Nov. 2 election.

The Pugh Printing Co., told the board Wednesday that it needs "at least a portion" of the information on races and candidates if the ballots are to be prepared in time.

The Ohio Supreme Court has not yet made a decision on a suit challenging legality of the additional judgeships.

Currently, the court has nine judges, but Ohio Secretary of State Ted Brown has ruled that the county is entitled to four more based on the latest census.

Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. filed the suit, contending the county would not be eligible for the new judgeships until 1973.

The state legislature is also considering the matter but has not made a ruling.

The other part of the board's problem is the unresolved challenges to the nominating petitions of City Council candidates Robert Weaver and Neze Tate.

But the printing firm for city ballots. H. W. Monter Co., has informed the board it can still meet the election deadline if orders are received by the middle of next week.

The board said its most pressing problem is getting ballots printed for absentee voters. These ballots are supposed to be ready by Monday, but a board spokesman said they probably won't be.

Gas Company Representative To Speak At Kiwanis Event

Miss Joy Washburn, public relations representative for Columbia Gas of Ohio Inc. will speak at the District Kiwanis Ladies Night meeting 6:30 p.m. Monday in the service center of Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, 310 E. Main St.

She will tell of the role Ohio industry and Ohioans played in helping America's space pioneers land men on the moon. Miss Washburn will exhibit many actual products developed through space technology that are helping to improve our way of life.

JOY WASHBURN

These include an experimental artificial heart used successfully in animals, computerized X-ray photos of a human skull, special energy-absorbing guardrail for highways and samples of food used by astronauts.

Miss Washburn also will explain how oxygen and hydrogen are liquefied to conserve space in manned rockets, and how the natural gas industry is using this space age technology to liquefy natural gas in Africa at super cold temperatures so that it can be transported to customers here in the United States.

The gas company speaker, who will appear at the program dressed from head to toe in clothing made of natural gas, will take her audience to Cape Kennedy where she witnessed, as a guest of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) the launch of Apollo 13.

And, of course, she'll talk about the astronauts who made it all possible, including Neil Armstrong of Wapakoneta, O., the first human to set foot on the moon.

Miss Washburn, of Columbus, is a graduate of Jackson High School and Ohio University. She was director of public relations at Urbana College, before joining the gas company and is listed in "Outstanding Young Women of America."

Flood Project Funds Sought By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Work on six Army Engineer flood control and navigation projects in Ohio would be stepped up if Congress approves President Nixon's request for more funds to spur the economy in high unemployment areas.

Requested were supplemental funds for the Alum Creek Lake, $1,200,000; Clarence J. Brown Lake, $500,000; Paint Creek Lake, $560,000; North Branch of Kokosing River Lake, $400,000; Remont, $1,440,000; Willow Island locks and dam, $800,000.

In all, Nixon asked for $34.1 million to increase the pace of 26 projects in seven states.

All of the projects were funded for continuing work in the recently enacted public works appropriation bill for the current fiscal year.

Revival Scheduled

A revival meeting will be held Oct. 4-10 at Zion United Methodist Church, Ashville. Services will begin 7:30 p.m. each evening.

The Rev. Ray Mann will be the evangelist. The Rev. John H. Currens is pastor of the church. A special musical program has been planned each evening.

Election Board At Cincinnati Faces Problem

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Hamilton County Board of Elections is caught in a bind in the unsettled controversy over addition of four judgeships to the county Municipal Court.

The board has been unable to complete orders for ballots for the Nov. 2 election.

The Pugh Printing Co., told the board Wednesday that it needs "at least a portion" of the information on races and candidates if the ballots are to be prepared in time.

The Ohio Supreme Court has not yet made a decision on a suit challenging legality of the additional judgeships.

Currently, the court has nine judges, but Ohio Secretary of State Ted Brown has ruled that the county is entitled to four more based on the latest census.

Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. filed the suit, contending the county would not be eligible for the new judgeships until 1973.

The state legislature is also considering the matter but has not made a ruling.

The other part of the board's problem is the unresolved challenges to the nominating petitions of City Council candidates Robert Weaver and Neze Tate.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Important Facts To Know About V.D.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who never misses your column. I read those letters about V.D. and have a few questions I want to ask you:

1. In which states can doctors treat minors for V.D. without telling their parents?

2. How old does a person have to be before he is no longer considered a minor?

3. Will you please come right out and describe some of the symptoms of V.D. I have heard so many stories, I am confused. For instance, I have heard that if a sore on the lips or in the mouth, or on the private parts doesn't heal up, it is probably V.D. I've also heard that a person can have other signs of V.D.-like a burning sensation when urinating, or an usuual discharge from private parts, and these signs sometimes go away without treatment, but the disease is still there and keeps on getting worse. Is that true?

4. Can V.D. really cause crippling, blindness and insanity, or are these just stories adults made up to scare kids?

5. Is it true that once a person is treated for V.D. he can never get it again?

6. One last question which I hope you won't think is too dumb to answer. Can a person get V.D. without going all the way?

With questions like these, I can't have a letter from you coming to my house, so will you please answer this in the paper? I am sure there are lots of other kids who would like to know the answers. Thank you very much.

WORRIED IN ATLANTA

DEAR WORRIED:

1. If you want to know whether the physicians in your state are required by law to have parental consent before treating minors for V.D., telephone any doctor and ask him. Or telephone the Department of Public Health, or your County or State Medical Society.

2. The age of a minor differs from state to state. It differs also for particular purposes. And in some states, the age of a minor is not the same for a male as it is for a female. (Your local Legal Aid Society can tell who is considered a minor for specific purposes.)

3. All the symptoms you describe can indicate V.D.-but these symptoms can also be present where there is no V.D., so the only way to determine positively whether or not you have it is to be examined by a physician.

4. Yes. But the conditions you describe are found only in extremely advanced cases.

5. Absolutely not!

6. Positively yes!

And may I add, no question that is asked in sincerity is "too dumb" to answer. I urge any minor who suspects that he (or she) has V.D., and cannot face his parents with the problem, to telephone the Department of Public Health and ask to see a doctor. Don't be afraid. You won't be lectured and you won't be punished. And if you don't have the few dollars to cover the cost of the examination, it will be free.

V.D. is curable, and the earlier it is treated, the better. If anyone has any questions related to this subject, write to me. I promise you a prompt, straight and confidential answer.

Views On TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK AP) — There were William Powell and Myrna Loy of "The Thin Man." There were Barbra Britton and Richard Denning of "Mr. and Mrs. North." Now, alas, there is Rock Hudson and Susan Saint James of NBC's "McMillan and Wife."

It has been a long time since television has attempted a frolicsome mystery series. This one arrived Wednesday complete with madcap wife, comedy detective sergeant and disappearing corpses plus creepy things going bump in the night.

The premiere took off with a forced gaiety and a silly complicated plot full of red herrings. As a result it was neither good comedy nor good suspense. In spite of the presence of attractive Rock Hudson, it appears to be the weakest of the three series which will fill the weekly 90-minute "Mystery Movie."

Hudson, with longish hair and handlebar mustache, plays a swinging San Francisco police commissioner who seems to spend most of his time dealing with assassins, open graves and collapsing curtain rods. He seems to be the one straight man in a cast of comedians.

The show opened with the McMillans moving into a new house. Miss Saint James opened what she believed to be a barrel of wedgewood, but it contained a corpse. By the time help arrived, the barrel and its contents had disappeared.

What was designed to be a merry romp followed. A man with distinctive sneakers—he was shown only from the waist down—did a lot of slinking around in the dark. Miss Saint James screamed in terror a lot but kept on doing unlikely things including visiting a sinister warehouse alone after hours. Hudson kept rescuing her—finally from a barrel which had been tossed in a river—and assuring her that everything would be all right.

The comedy murder is an acceptable entertainment form—such classics as "Seven Keys to Baldpate" and "Arsenic and Old Lace" prove that. But the comedy part has to work. Maybe it would help things if the McMillans were given a dog: Asta certainly did a lot for "The Thin Man."

Earlier on NBC, the prowl car team of "Adam 12" was busy solving a holdup in a shop run by a group of grandmothers and specializing in bargain pot holders. The officer took time out during the investigation to help a priest nail a marijuana peddler—just another routine day in the lives of a couple of Los Angeles cops, and a mildly amusing way for viewers to kill an early-evening 30 minutes.

Dock Strike Threatens East Coast

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials of the International Longshoremen's Association have authorized strikes at all East and Gulf Coast ports if New York shippers discontinue a guaranteed income plan when contracts expire at midnight Thursday.

The union's wage scale committee, composed of representatives of all deep-sea ports from Maine to Texas, took the strike authorization vote at a meeting Tuesday night.

A contract negotiating session was canceled Tuesday because of a deadlock over the guaranteed income issue and a settlement before the deadline was not expected.

Dockworkers in East and Gulf Coast ports have struck at the expiration of every contract since World War II. However, the union president, Thomas Gleason, has directed members to work past the deadline provided the shippers extended all contract terms.

In Galveston, Tex., Monday night union representatives of Gulf Coast and lower Atlantic ports voted to back Gleason and stay on the job after Thursday. In Philadelphia, shippers and union locals have agreed the port would remain open.

The New York Shipping Association has threatened, however, not to extend the guaranteed payments provision, which assures dockworkers here pay for 40 hours a week throughout the year.

The shippers say the union has abused the provision, that it cost them $30 million last year and that they would go bankrupt if they continued the payments.

If the shippers carry out their threat, union officials consider it likely the 18,000-member New York local would strike and that, as in the past, the 27,000 union members in other East and Gulf Coast ports would follow.

With West Coast ports strikebound since July 1, such a walkout would produce the nation's first all-coasts port shutdown and, presumably, a presidential declaration of national emergency to have them reopened.

I urge any minor who suspects that he (or she) has V.D., and cannot face his parents with the problem, to telephone the Department of Public Health and ask to see a doctor. Don't be afraid. You won't be lectured and you won't be punished. And if you don't have the few dollars to cover the cost of the examination, it will be free.

V.D. is curable, and the earlier it is treated, the better. If anyone has any questions related to this subject, write to me. I promise you a prompt, straight and confidential answer.

Views On TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK AP) — There were William Powell and Myrna Loy of "The Thin Man." There were Barbra Britton and Richard Denning of "Mr. and Mrs. North." Now, alas, there is Rock Hudson and Susan Saint James of NBC's "McMillan and Wife."

It has been a long time since television has attempted a frolicsome mystery series. This one arrived Wednesday complete with madcap wife, comedy detective sergeant and disappearing corpses plus creepy things going bump in the night.

The premiere took off with a forced gaiety and a silly complicated plot full of red herrings. As a result it was neither good comedy nor good suspense. In spite of the presence of attractive Rock Hudson, it appears to be the weakest of the three series which will fill the weekly 90-minute "Mystery Movie."

Hudson, with longish hair and handlebar mustache, plays a swinging San Francisco police commissioner who seems to spend most of his time dealing with assassins, open graves and collapsing curtain rods. He seems to be the one straight man in a cast of comedians.

The show opened with the McMillans moving into a new house. Miss Saint James opened what she believed to be a barrel of wedgewood, but it contained a corpse. By the time help arrived, the barrel and its contents had disappeared.

What was designed to be a merry romp followed. A man with distinctive sneakers—he was shown only from the waist down—did a lot of slinking around in the dark. Miss Saint James screamed in terror a lot but kept on doing unlikely things including visiting a sinister warehouse alone after hours. Hudson kept rescuing her—finally from a barrel which had been tossed in a river—and assuring her that everything would be all right.

The comedy murder is an acceptable entertainment form—such classics as "Seven Keys to Baldpate" and "Arsenic and Old Lace" prove that. But the comedy part has to work. Maybe it would help things if the McMillans were given a dog: Asta certainly did a lot for "The Thin Man."

Earlier on NBC, the prowl car team of "Adam 12" was busy solving a holdup in a shop run by a group of grandmothers and specializing in bargain pot holders. The officer took time out during the investigation to help a priest nail a marijuana peddler—just another routine day in the lives of a couple of Los Angeles cops, and a mildly amusing way for viewers to kill an early-evening 30 minutes.

Dock Strike Threatens East Coast

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials of the International Longshoremen's Association have authorized strikes at all East and Gulf Coast ports if New York shippers discontinue a guaranteed income plan when contracts expire at midnight Thursday.

The union's wage scale committee, composed of representatives of all deep-sea ports from Maine to Texas, took the strike authorization vote at a meeting Tuesday night.

A contract negotiating session was canceled Tuesday because of a deadlock over the guaranteed income issue and a settlement before the deadline was not expected.

Dockworkers in East and Gulf Coast ports have struck at the expiration of every contract since World War II. However, the union president, Thomas Gleason, has directed members to work past the deadline provided the shippers extended all contract terms.

In Galveston, Tex., Monday night union representatives of Gulf Coast and lower Atlantic ports voted to back Gleason and stay on the job after Thursday. In Philadelphia, shippers and union locals have agreed the port would remain open.

The New York Shipping Association has threatened, however, not to extend the guaranteed payments provision, which assures dockworkers here pay for 40 hours a week throughout the year.

The shippers say the union has abused the provision, that it cost them $30 million last year and that they would go bankrupt if they continued the payments.

If the shippers carry out their threat, union officials consider it likely the 18,000-member New York local would strike and that, as in the past, the 27,000 union members in other East and Gulf Coast ports would follow.

With West Coast ports strikebound since July 1, such a walkout would produce the nation's first all-coasts port shutdown and, presumably, a presidential declaration of national emergency to have them reopened.

Jobless Claims Show Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Both new and continuing claims for unemployment compensation were reduced in the week ended Sept. 25, the Bureau of Employment Services reported Wednesday.

New claims for the week totaled 10,763 compared with the 11,458 filed in the previous week. Continuing claims of those unemployed one week or more dropped from 87,327 in the week ended Sept. 18 to 84,442.

Layoffs in the steel industry has had some effect on the state's employment figures, the bureau said.

Cancer Takes Toll In British Isles

LONDON (AP) — Deaths from cancer rose in Britain in 1970 to the highest peak ever. A government report showed cancer killed 115,732, up 2 per cent from 1969, and 20 per cent of all deaths recorded.

Tuberculosis, which 50 years ago killed nearly as many people as cancer was responsible for only 1,397 deaths in 1970, 218 fewer than in 1969.

Biographies are good reading. It is such fun to read about the lives of famous people, to find out how and why they became famous. The Children's Room has three new biographies.

For younger children there is "Leonard Bernstein" by Molly Cone. Lenny's father and mother were immigrants from Russia. His father was doing well in his business so he knew Lenny would be in the business with him some day. But Lenny dreamed different dreams. He became a musician — a pianist, a conductor and a composer — all at the same time. Illustrations are by Robert Glaster.

Older boys and girls will enjoy the other two biographies. "The Meriwether Lewis Mystery" by Wilma Pitchford Hays is an action-packed biography sure to please the boys. This story describes President Thomas Jefferson's dream of a free America unhampered by boundaries. And it tells how Meriwether Lewis made that dream come true. The Lewis and Clark expedition met every hardship a wilderness can present with courage and dedication. They ran out of food, met hostile Indians, were attacked by wild animals and got sick and injured. But they successfully completed their mission before Lewis met his tragic end.

"Annie Sullivan: a Portrait" by Terry Dunnahoo is the warm moving story of the "Miracle worker." Girls will be upset and then excited by the story of Miss Sullivan's life. Rising from a life of terrible poverty, through a mental institution and then to a school for the blind, Annie clawed and scratched her way to a life of fulfillment. As the tutor to Helen Keller she met new challenges every day. Her own rapidly failing health did not slow her determination that Helen Keller be allowed to achieve what she was capable of doing. Annie Sullivan was truly a remarkable woman.

Education Funds Eyed By OEA

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A special convention of the Ohio Education Association was scheduled here today to determine what action the teachers organization should take to obtain state funding for education.

The OEA did not say what the action might be.

"We've got schools in Ohio that are literally broke waiting for state money," OEA President William McDonald said Wednesday.

"We have to have some action in the Legislature before Oct. 1 or it will be too late to help this year."

The Ohio General Assembly has not yet enacted a permanent state budget for the current biennium.

It has passed six interim budgets since the fiscal year ended June 30, including one containing $2.7 million to help financially-distressed school districts that might have to close their doors unless additional funds are available.

Better Water For Ohioans Being Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Industry and ecologists differed Wednesday over a proposal to upgrade many streams now classified as water for industrial supplies.

Before a hearing by the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board, Ohio Department of Health engineer Earl Richards recommended the upgrading of "Aquatic Life B" streams to "Aquatic Life A"

The upgrading would be to meet requirements of the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). It would affect most sections of the state, since there are many streams now classified as water for industrial supplies.

If the board approves Wednesday's proposal, it would be the third time since 1966 that Ohio water quality standards have been upgraded. "Aquatic Life A" will support warm water fish, and "B" will not.

The five Ohio water categories now are: industrial supply, agricultural supply public supply, recreational waters and waters for aquatic life.

The EPA has declared that "all waters in Ohio must meet standards for use in at least two of the categories."

Additional changes would drop one set of low level aquatic life standards and establish a new "cold water fisheries" or trout stream category with very high dissolved oxygen standards, and would establish two classes of recreational waters—primary for swimming and water skiing, and secondary for boating, fishing and wading.

Drug Pushers Problem For VA

By JEAN HELLER
And
GAYLORD SHAW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Phasing out of the Vietnam war and the resulting discharge of its veterans has created a new and difficult problem for the Veterans Administration: drug dealing in its hospitals.

Officials at Veterans Administration headquarters in Washington minimize drug abuse problems as isolated incidents, but VA hospital directors dispute this.

The men who run the hospitals said the problem is already a major one, that it is growing steadily, that it is a source of violent crimes inside hospitals and that it is nearly impossible to stop.

The problem is most acute in those facilities where large numbers of Vietnam veterans are patients, say the hospital directors.

And a new door to abuses opened with creation of drug-treatment centers in VA hospitals. The centers, 32 of which were scheduled to be in operation by next month, seem to draw pushers.

At the VA hospital in Washington, authorities were summoned recently by the chaplain who detected a sweet odor emanating from his editation room. They learned that six patients had been smoking marijuana there, but haven't been able to learn their names.

Hospital Director A. A. Gaviazzi ordered the meditation room locked. The next night the patients smoked their pot behind the chapel altar. Now the chapel also is locked.

Gavazzi is convinced that the pot parties are continuing in some secluded area of the sprawling hospital complex, "we just don't know where."

"One day I fully expect to get that sweet odor pouring out of the air conditioning ducts," said the director.

The situation is more serious in the Washington VA hospital's new drug-treatment center.

"We have a constant problem of drugs coming into this unit," said its chief physician, Dr. Norman Tamarkin. "We have periodic unannounced searches and we have turned up some drugs."

"It's not uncommon for a patient to come here from another ward and say he's been shooting up every day. One patient in the neruopsychiatric ward was shooting up every day for four months before anybody discovered it.

"It's not something you can easily put a stop to. This is a 60 bed hospital and there are hundreds of people in and out of the building every day. Short of a thorough search of each patient and visitor every day, there's no way to keep drugs out. They're easier to carry and hide than a bottle of liquor."

No one in the VA system can pinpoint how many patients in the 166 VA hospitals across the country use or sell narcotics.

Earlier this year, Michael Burns, executive director of Paralyzed Veterans of America, charged before a Senate subcommitee that drug abuse was particularly widespread in spinal-cord-injury wards.

"If the VA were ever to open the Pandora's box on drug abuse in spinal-cord-injury wards," he said, "it would make any other study on drug abuse seem like nothing."

Prompted by Burns' charges, the VA conducted an investigation and concluded: "There are some alcohol and-or drug-abuses problems . . . but . . . officials are aware of these problems and are making diligent efforts to control and correct them."

In an Associated Press survey of 12 VA hospital directors, half said they had direct knowledge of illegal drug activities in their institutitions and the other half said they suspected but could not prove such activities.

None had been able to do anything about the problem.

'68 Pullout Opportunity Said Missed

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Gen. Harold Johnson, who served as Army chief of staff under former President Lyndon Johnson, says the United States should have pulled out of Vietnam after the Tet offensive in February, 1968, but that "we didn't have the vision, and we didn't have the guts."

Speaking to ROTC cadets at the University of Akron Wednesday, Johnson said the North Vietnamese ranks were decimated at that time, and that the United States missed a good opportunity to withdraw its forces.

Johnson predicted that South Vietnamese troops would become stronger and start to "bite off hunks of North Vietnam in five years."

He also predicted that the South Vietnamese troops could gain control of much of North Vietnam in 10 to 20 years, but said whether they did depends "on the action of China."

Johnson currently is president of the Freedoms Foundation in Valley, Forge, Pa. He served under Johnson from July, 1964, to July, 1968.

Drug Pushers Problem For VA

By JEAN HELLER
And
GAYLORD SHAW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Phasing out of the Vietnam war and the resulting discharge of its veterans has created a new and difficult problem for the Veterans Administration: drug dealing in its hospitals.

Officials at Veterans Administration headquarters in Washington minimize drug abuse problems as isolated incidents, but VA hospital directors dispute this.

The men who run the hospitals said the problem is already a major one, that it is growing steadily, that it is a source of violent crimes inside hospitals and that it is nearly impossible to stop.

The problem is most acute in those facilities where large numbers of Vietnam veterans are patients, say the hospital directors.

And a new door to abuses opened with creation of drug-treatment centers in VA hospitals. The centers, 32 of which were scheduled to be in operation by next month, seem to draw pushers.

At the VA hospital in Washington, authorities were summoned recently by the chaplain who detected a sweet odor emanating from his editation room. They learned that six patients had been smoking marijuana there, but haven't been able to learn their names.

Hospital Director A. A. Gavazzi ordered the meditation room locked. The next night the patients smoked their pot behind the chapel altar. Now the chapel also is locked.

Gavazzi is convinced that the pot parties are continuing in some secluded area of the sprawling hospital complex, "we just don't know where."

"One day I fully expect to get that sweet odor pouring out of the air conditioning ducts," said the director.

The situation is more serious in the Washington VA hospital's new drug-treatment center.

"We have a constant problem of drugs coming into this unit," said its chief physician, Dr. Norman Tamarkin. "We have periodic unannounced searches and we have turned up some drugs."

"It's not uncommon for a patient to come here from another ward and say he's been shooting up every day. One patient in the neuropsychiatric ward was shooting up every day for four months before anybody discovered it.

"It's not something you can easily put a stop to. This is a 60 bed hospital and there are hundreds of people in and out of the building every day. Short of a thorough search of each patient and visitor every day, there's no way to keep drugs out. They're easier to carry and hide than a bottle of liquor."

No one in the VA system can pinpoint how many patients in the 166 VA hospitals across the country use or sell narcotics.

Earlier this year, Michael Burns, executive director of Paralyzed Veterans of America, charged before a Senate subcommittee that drug abuse was particularly widespread in spinal-cord-injury wards.

"If the VA were ever to open the Pandora's box on drug abuse in spinal-cord-injury wards," he said, "it would make any other study on drug abuse seem like nothing."

Prompted by Burns' charges, the VA conducted an investigation and concluded: "There are some alcohol and-or drug-abuses problems . . . but . . . officials are aware of these problems and are making diligent efforts to control and correct them."

In an Associated Press survey of 12 VA hospital directors, half said they had direct knowledge of illegal drug activities in their institutions and the other half said they suspected but could not prove such activities.

None had been able to do anything about the problem.

'68 Pullout Opportunity Said Missed

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Gen. Harold Johnson, who served as Army chief of staff under former President Lyndon Johnson, says the United States should have pulled out of Vietnam after the Tet offensive in February, 1968, but that "we didn't have the vision, and we didn't have the guts."

Speaking to ROTC cadets at the University of Akron Wednesday, Johnson said the North Vietnamese ranks were decimated at that time, and that the United States missed a good opportunity to withdraw its forces.

Johnson predicted that South Vietnamese troops would become stronger and start to "bite off hunks of North Vietnam in five years."

He also predicted that the South Vietnamese troops could gain control of much of North Vietnam in 10 to 20 years, but said whether they did depends "on the action of China."

Johnson currently is president of the Freedoms Foundation in Valley, Forge, Pa. He served under Johnson from July, 1964, to July, 1968.

Soviet Trade Official Said Betrayer Of Red Spy Ring

LONDON (AP) — The Foreign Office reported today that the Soviet KGB agent who defected to England was a member of the Soviet Trade Commission in London. It named him as Oleg Lyalin, 34.

His defection placed into the hands of the British documents that have led the government to issue orders for the expulsion of 90 Soviets based in London and the barring of 15 others from returning.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Lyalin is the man supposed to have appeared in court this morning on a drunken driving charge placed against him a month ago.

The London Daily Express said in a story published before the Foreign Office report that it had learned the name of the defector through the pending court case, but his name in court records was given as Lialine.

Asked if the newspaper report identifying the defector was correct, the spokesman said only that the KGB official named by the Foreign Office last week "is a man named Oleg Lyalin and he was an officer of the Soviet trade delegation."

The traffic case came up this morning at Great Marborough St. Court. But the defendant failed to appear. The courtroom was jammed because of the Daily Express story.

Court attaches and police who were present in unusual strength declined all comment. None would discuss even the theory that Lyalin is under a British intelligence and Foreign Office umbrella that would satisfy the court and lead to shelving of the drunk-driving charge.

The Express said the hint to its identification came from Soviet Embassy second secretary Vladimir Pavinov, who told a reporter that the defector was a trade official recently involved in a traffic case.

After checking police records, the newspaper concluded he meant Lialine, and splashed the story under a giant headline: "Super Spy Oleg."

Youth Grangers Attend Confab

Last Saturday three members of the local grange youth organization attended a youth conference held in Mason, Ohio for youth in Ohio Granges.

The conference was arranged and conducted by the youth directors in Warren County assisted by Mary Steiner of the host grange.

Bonnie Bolender, Joan Dawson and Paul Dunkle represented Pickaway County at this meeting, along with the guest of Mrs. Dawson who lives in Pakistan.

During the day discussions were held concerning the place of the Grange in modern day living. Following the noon lunch, a local patrolman showed a movie and held a discussion with the youth concerning safe driving.

To end the day the youth enjoyed folk and square dancing.

The local youth organization is holding its monthly meeting Sunday at the nome of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dawson, beginning at 7 p.m.

On Monday evening the group will attend Violet Grange in Pickerington where they will install the Grange officers for the coming year.

time schedule. The chief has 60 days to approve the plan. No licensing can be granted without the chief's approval.

—Minimal insurance protection for each operator for each project of $100,000 for single bodily-injury or property damage, and $300,000 for multiple personal injury and property damage.

—An increase in basic licensing fees from $75 to $150, and in per acre license fees from $15 to $30. Revenue is to be used to meet the division's administrative costs.

—New authority to the chief of the Division of Wildlife and Reclamation to revoke licenses or suspend them for failure to comply with state requirements.

—Appointment of inspection officers under the chief's control to check on-the-job violations. Those inspectors are to be granted immunity from charges of trespass, and are to have the absolute right to enter a work site.

—Division prerogatives to declare certain areas in Ohio as "scenic," and therefore unsuitable for strip mining. Creasy called the provision about the only way to "protect those special kinds of natural beauty spots."

Ironically, the legislative assault against indiscriminate strip mine operations comes at a time when the demand for coal to meet urban power needs has far outstripped the supply. New markets have prompted commercial operations in recent years to extract minerals from the soil as quickly and cheaply as possible.

In the U.S. this year alone, 610 million tons of coal will be mined. Nearly 40 per cent of that will have been stripped, rather than deep-shaft mined.

The coal industry has projected that the figure will rise to 50 per cent by 1974.

Ralph Hatch, president of the Hanna Coal Co., one of the nation's largest, has warned that reclamation provisions in the bill will force the price of coal up $2.50 a ton. The current market price per ton is about $12.50.

"We'll be happy to put in a golf course, too, if the consumer will pay for it," Hatch says. Opponents of the measure have said Ohio's competitive position in coal market will be jeopardized by the higher production costs.

Other states, however, join Ohio in efforts to further control the strip mine industry. West Virginia has banned strip mining in 22 of the state's 55 counties not yet touched by strip operations. Pennsylvania, with one law already on the books that served as the working model for the Ohio Legislature, is close to enacting a still tougher one.

U.S. Rep. Wayne Hays, R-Ohio, has introduced a bill into Congress calling for total federal control of strip mining across the country, with a three-man presidential commission charged with licensing and regulation.

Four Receive Injuries In Crash

Four persons received injuries in a two-car collision 1 p.m. Wednesday on Route 104, a mile south of the Franklin-Pickaway County line.

Taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital by the Scioto Twp. emergency squad were William H. Graumlich, 33, and William Rodgers, 46, both of Route 1, Lockbourne and Rodger E., 23, and Cynthia A. Rumer, 25, Route 1, Ashville. They were released following treatment.

Headed south on Route 104, Rumer began to overtake the Graumlich auto, also southbound. Graumlich slowed to make a left turn into his driveway and both cars collided, going off the east side of the roadway into a ditch.

Neither driver was cited by investigating highway patrolmen.

Wheaton Club Names 'Man Of The Year'

The Wheaton Club of Columbus has named Floyd Bartley, Route 4, its "Man of the Year."

The honor is based on his contributions as an amateur botanist. Bartley has spent a lifetime collecting and preserving plant specimens and relating them to habitat and to geographical regions.

As a child, he developed an interest in natural history. He acquired the usual secondary school education, but his competence in botany was developed by self-education.

He is considered the most knowledgeable amateur botanist in Ohio.

* * *

HE has accumulated a respectable botanical library. Some of the books he acquired early in his career have gone out of print and are now collectors items.

When he encountered botanical problems inadequately covered in his books, he began contacting experts. He has sent specimens for identification to the Smithsonian Institution and to the New York Botanical Garden and has corresponded with botanists there.

Bartley has several qualifications that stand him in good stead in his pursuit of botany. One is an unusually keen and rapid vision. A second is a remarkable memory for places and species. He is able to pinpoint the location of a rare specimen collected 20 years ago. A third is an unquenchable curiosity and a contagious enthusiasm with reference to plant life.

His more tangible contributions to science have been the specimens sent to various museums or herbaria. When he finds a seemingly rare species he routinely collects four specimens: for the Smithsonian, for the New York Botanical Garden, for some herbarium in the state where the species was found and for his own collection. He has given over 5,000 species to Ohio University where they have named their herbarium after him.

He also has loaned many specimens to herbaria such as those at Ohio State, Bowling Green and Kent and also to the flora committee of the Ohio Academy of Science.

Another contribution is in the form of giving substantial help to professional botanists in their field work. For example the American Fern Society scheduled a three-day meeting in 1958 with field trips in southern Ohio. They took advantage of Bartley's familiarity with the area. The group included the curator of ferns at the Smithsonian and members from 16 states. In Bowles Hollow alone he showed them 27 species of ferns, some of which members of the party had never seen growing.

* * *

WHEN N. W. Easterly was preparing a monograph on the cruciferae (mustards) he spent a day with Bartley and found 13 species including one state record. Arthur Cronquist of the New York Botanical Garden while helping with the revision of Britton and Brown's "Botany" found the best Ohio materials in the specimens Bartley had sent to the Garden. Professor Warren Wagner of the University of Michigan Botany Department scheduled field work in Ohio for his classes year after year with Bartley as their leader.

Richard Wareham, formerly of the Botany Department at Ohio State, rated Bartley as "Ohio's most famous 20th century amateur botanist." C. V. Morton of the Smithsonian stated that Bartley's "specimens have always been a most valued addition to the National Herbarium, especially since Ohio was poorly represented in our collections."

A few of Bartley's major "finds" may be mentioned. One was a large-leaved Magnolia (Magnolia macrophylla) found in Liberty Twp., Jackson County. This tree is usually considered as indigenous to the Carolinas. In that same township he collected a new species of reed grass identified by the Smithsonian people as Calamagrostis insperata. They added it to the United States flora and gave Bartley credit for its discovery.

Near Buckeye Furnace in Jackson County he found a new species of moss. Harold identified it as not only a new species but a new genus and suggested the name "Bartleya ohioensis." The specimen collected is sterile which may be one reason the species has not been described earlier.

In addition to his finds, he has had a definite influence on the interests and competence to the many individuals with whom he has had contact in the field. His contagious enthusiasm for whatever he finds growing anywhere has touched many lives.

He is always in demand to conduct group field trips and has been referred to as a "mobile encyclopaedia" because of his ready knowledge of plants of Ohio.

HE has promoted conservation throughout his life and is an active member of the South Central Ohio Preservation Society.

The Ohio Academy of Science made Bartley an honorary life member in 1966. The Brooks Bird Club had done likewise earlier. The Ohio Association of Garden Clubs gave Bartley their first state conservation award.

Ronald L. Stuckey, associate professor of Botany and curator of the herbarium, Ohio State University, says of Bartley:

"Floyd Bartley truly represents one of those complete, now rare, all-round naturalists. Probably nobody else in Ohio knows more Ohio plants by sight in the field than Floyd Bartley. His contributions will always play a significant part in the knowledge and understanding of the flora of Ohio."

China Trip To Spark Viet Talks?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wife of an American prisoner of war says White House adviser Henry Kissinger told her and others that President Nixon's trip to Communist China could speed up a negotiated end to the Vietnam war.

Kissinger denied the statement, attributed to him by Barbara Mullen, of Oakland, Calif. wife of a Marine pilot missing in action in Laos.

Mrs. Mullen said this and other statements intimating a break in the deadlocked negotiations were made by Kissinger in meetings — most recently on Aug. 26 in San Clemente, Calif.—with relatives of Americans who are prisoners of war or missing in action.

"He said the North Vietnamese are not too happy about" Nixon's projected trip to mainland China, Mrs. Mullen said in an interview. "So they will feel they should begin to negotiate more seriously with us now."

Mrs. Mullen said Kisinger referred to a thaw in U.S.-Soviet relations as another pressure on Hanoi to negotiate.

"I didn't say it. It isn't true. And it is not our policy," Kissinger said when asked about the reports.

Ohio Bus Lines Granted Order For Operation

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ohio Bus Lines, Inc., which serves cities in the Southwestern Ohio area, has been granted an order to continue operating while arranging to pay off its debts.

The bus firm filed a petition Wednesday in U.S. District Court under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. Referee Leonard Gartner issued an order allowing the company to retain possession of its property and preventing the filing of any legal actions against the firm.

Jerald Robbins, president of the firm, said the bus line could not continue to operate unprofitable routes.

Cities served by the line include Cincinnati, Hamilton, Middletown, Dayton, Oxford and Lebanon, and Richmond, Ind.

Ginger, born in the Atlantic 21 days ago, already has been blamed for one drowning in St. Augustine, Fla., and two young swimmers were missing in heavy surf off Neptune Beach. Meanwhile, Tropical Storm Olivia, located in the Pacific Ocean some 600 miles south of California, pushed heavy rainclouds over the Southwest today.

Up to 2 inches of rain already has fallen in some spots. Flash flood watches were posted in Arizona, New Mexico and parts of southwestern Colorado.

Clouds from Olivia also brought locally heavy snows to higher elevations in the Rockies. Travel warnings were out in the mountains of Colorado, northern California, western Nevada and Oregon.

Most of the West was cool but summer-like heat lingered in the East and South, where temperatures Wednesday sprinted into the 80s and 90s. The heat was expected to spread back into the upper Mississippi alley and the western Great Lakes, touching off thunderstorms along the way.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 29 at Kalispell, Mont., to 80 at Key West, Fla.

Wheaton Club Names 'Man Of The Year'

The Wheaton Club of Columbus has named Floyd Bartley, Route 4, its "Man of the Year."

The honor is based on his contributions as an amateur botanist. Bartley has spent a lifetime collecting and preserving plant specimens and relating them to habitat and to geographical regions.

As a child, he developed an interest in natural history. He acquired the usual secondary school education, but his competence in botany was developed by self-education.

He is considered the most knowledgeable amateur botanist in Ohio.

• • •

HE has accumulated a respectable botanical library. Some of the books he acquired early in his career have gone out of print and are now collectors items.

When he encountered botanical problems inadequately covered in his books, he began contacting experts. He has sent specimens for identification to the Smithsonian Institution and to the New York Botanical Garden and has corresponded with botanists there.

Bartley has several qualifications that stand him in good stead in his pursuit of botany. One is an unusually keen and rapid vision. A second is a remarkable memory for places and species. He is able to pinpoint the location of a rare specimen collected 20 years ago. A third is an unquenchable curiosity and a contagious enthusiasm with reference to plant life.

His more tangible contributions to science have been the specimens sent to various museums or herbaria. When he finds a seemingly rare species he routinely collects four specimens: for the Smithsonian, for the New York Botanical Garden, for some herbarium in the state where the species was found and for his own collection. He has given over 5,000 species to Ohio University where they have named their herbarium after him.

He also has loaned many specimens to herbaria such as those at Ohio State, Bowling Green and Kent and also to the flora committee of the Ohio Academy of Science.

Another contribution is in the form of giving substantial help to professional botanists in their field work. For example the American Fern Society scheduled a three-day meeting in 1958 with field trips in southern Ohio. They took advantage of Bartley's familiarity with the area. The group included the curator of ferns at the Smithsonian and members from 16 states. In Bowles Hollow alone he showed them 27 species of ferns, some of which members of the party had never seen growing.

• • •

WHEN N. W. Easterly was preparing a monograph on the cruciferae (mustards) he spent a day with Bartley and found 13 species including one state record. Arthur Cronquist of the New York Botanical Garden while helping with the revision of Britton and Brown's "Botany" found the best Ohio materials in the specimens Bartley had sent to the Garden.

Professor Warren Wagner of the University of Michigan Botany Department scheduled field work in Ohio for his classes year after year with Bartley as their leader.

Richard Wareham, formerly of the Botany Department at Ohio State, rated Bartley as "Ohio's most famous 20th century amateur botanist." C. V. Morton of the Smithsonian stated that Bartley's "specimens have always been a most valued addition to the National Herbarium, especially since Ohio was poorly represented in our collections."

A few of Bartley's major "finds" may be mentioned. One was a large-leaved Magnolia (Magnolia macrophylla) found in Liberty Twp., Jackson County. This tree is usually considered as indigenous to the Carolinas. In that same township he collected a new species of reed grass identified by the Smithsonian people as Calamagrostis insperata. They added it to the United States flora and gave Bartley credit for its discovery.

Near Buckeye Furnace in Jackson County he found a new species of moss. Harold identified it as not only a new species but a new genus and suggested the name "Bartleya ohioensis." The specimen collected is sterile which may be one reason the species has not been described earlier.

In addition to his finds, he has had a definite influence on the interests and competence to the many individuals with whom he has had contact in the field. His contagious enthusiasm for whatever he finds growing anywhere has touched many lives.

He is always in demand to conduct group field trips and has been referred to as a "mobile encyclopaedia" because of his ready knowledge of plants of Ohio.

HE has promoted conservation throughout his life and is an active member of the South Central Ohio Preservation Society.

The Ohio Academy of Science made Bartley an honorary life member in 1966. The Brooks Bird Club had done likewise earlier. The Ohio Association of Garden Clubs gave Bartley their first state conservation award.

Ronald L. Stuckey, associate professor of Botany and curator of the herbarium, Ohio State University, says of Bartley:

"Floyd Bartley truly represents one of those complete, now rare, all-round naturalists. Probably nobody else in Ohio knows more Ohio plants by sight in the field than Floyd Bartley. His contributions will always play a significant part in the knowledge and understanding of the flora of Ohio."

China Trip To Spark Viet Talks?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wife of an American prisoner of war says White House adviser Henry Kissinger told her and others that President Nixon's trip to Communist China could speed up a negotiated end to the Vietnam war.

Kissinger denied the statement, attributed to him by Barbara Mullen, of Oakland, Calif. wife of a Marine pilot missing in action in Laos.

Mrs. Mullen said this and other statements intimating a break in the deadlocked negotiations were made by Kissinger in meetings — most recently on Aug. 26 in San Clemente, Calif.—with relatives of Americans who are prisoners of war or missing in action.

"He said the North Vietnamese are not too happy about" Nixon's projected trip to mainland China, Mrs. Mullen said in an interview. "So they will feel they should begin to negotiate more seriously with us now."

Mrs. Mullen said Kisinger referred to a thaw in U.S.-Soviet relations as another pressure on Hanoi to negotiate.

"I didn't say it. It isn't true. And it is not our policy," Kissinger said when asked about the reports.

Ohio Bus Lines Granted Order For Operation

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ohio Bus Lines, Inc., which serves cities in the Southwestern Ohio area, has been granted an order to continue operating while arranging to pay off its debts.

The bus firm filed a petition Wednesday in U.S. District Court under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. Referee Leonard Gartner issued an order allowing the company to retain possession of its property and preventing the filing of any legal actions against the firm.

Jerald Robbins, president of the firm, said the bus line could not continue to operate unprofitable routes.

Cities served by the line include Cincinnati, Hamilton, Middletown, Dayton, Oxford and Lebanon, and Richmond, Ind.

Civil Defense Director Darrell Quigley had ordered the evacuation of the island's 80 residents, but not all left.

Ginger, born in the Atlantic 21 days ago, already has been blamed for one drowning in St. Augustine, Fla., and two young swimmers were missing in heavy surf off Neptune Beach.

Meanwhile, Tropical Storm Olivia, located in the Pacific Ocean some 600 miles south of California, pushed heavy rainclouds over the Southwest today.

Up to 2 inches of rain already has fallen in some spots. Flash flood watches were posted in Arizona, New Mexico and parts of southwestern Colorado.

Clouds from Olivia also brought locally heavy snows to higher elevations in the Rockies. Travel warnings were out in the mountains of Colorado, northern California, western Nevada and Oregon.

Most of the West was cool but summer-like heat lingered in the East and South, where temperatures Wednesday sprinted into the 80s and 90s. The heat was expected to spread back into the upper Mississippi alley and the western Great Lakes, touching off thunderstorms along the way.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 29 at Kalispell, Mont., to 80 at Key West, Fla.

29 Americans Reported Dead In Indochina

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that 29 Americans were killed in action in Vietnam last week, the first time in 11 weeks that U.S. combat deaths exceeded 20.

The toll was 16 higher than the number reported for the previous week.

A command spokesman, Maj. Richard Gardner, said that part of the increase last week was due to administrative changes in casualty listings. He said six men previously carried as missing or wounded were now reported as dead. Several others included in last week's toll, he said, resulted from delays in reports or identifications.

The command's weekly summary also showed 47 Americans were wounded in action last week, a drop of 64 from the previous week. In addition, the command said, six Americans died from accidents and illnesses, half of the number who died from nonhostile causes a week earlier.

The South Vietnamese command reported 263 government troops were killed and 615 were wounded last week, compared with 397 killed and 755 wounded two weeks ago.

The two allied commands jointly claimed 1,331 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers killed last week, a drop from the 1,572 reported in the previous week.

The latest official figures raised casualty totals for the war to:

United States—45,543 killed, 301,747 wounded, and 9,787 deaths from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnam—133,617 killed, 289,250 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—773,768 killed.

Clear-Cutting Is Defended By Forest Chief

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Forest Service head Edward Cliff said here Wednesday that clear-cutting is a legitimate method of harvesting timber where trees require sunlight to grow.

A number of environmentalists have criticized the forest service for clear-cutting, which involves cutting all trees in an area.

"Clear-cutting has been used for centuries in Europe," said Cliff in an interview during the national convention of the Society of American Foresters. "It's the principal method in the Scandinavian countries."

The U.S. Forest Service last year clear-cut 600,000 acres, about half of the timberland it harvested. Cliff said yellow poplar, black cherry, red oak, yellow birch, Douglas fir, lodgepole and southern pine are among trees that have difficulty growing under shade.

Checks A Wash Out In Long Beach

LONG BEACH, N. Y. (AP) — Two hundred forged City of New York Finance Department checks were washed up on the beach here. Some of them were for amounts of $400.

"We don't know whether it's a new ring at work or whether the old ring is at work again," said Investigator Commissioner Robert K. Ruskin.

Some of the checks were in sheets of three and four. All had stubs attached. Some bore signatures and serial numbers.

Devalued Dollar Could Help American Trade

By LAURANCE F. STUNT
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — World money managers meeting in Washington this week are talking about a new and mysterious-sounding way for nations to pay their bills—Special Drawing Rights or SDRs.

In the process, they are also talking about a devaluation of the dollar.

What does all this mean to the average American pocketbook?

Directly, it doesn't mean anything. But there are long-range effects on jobs and international trade which make the talks vitally important to everyone.

Neither the SDRs nor dollar devaluation will have any direct bearing on how much your dollar is worth at the supermarket, in the auto showroom—as long as you buy a Detroit product—or in the bursar's office at your son's college.

Nor will the SDRs make any difference to you on a foreign vacation. You will take your dollar bills or your dollar travelers' checks and use them abroad just as you do now. However, devaluation would make your dollars worth fewer francs, for instance, and your vacation will cost a little more.

Devaluation would come by the government's changing the present price of gold which is $35 per ounce. But since you don't use gold to pay for anything now, the change will not make any difference in the prices of American goods sold in America.

As to SDRs, they would just be a bookkeeping entry made by government banks to keep track of whether they were selling more goods abroad than they were buying. At present they move gold. With SDRs, they would just add them in one column and subtract them in another.

This change, which may sound remote, would be aimed at stabilizing foreign trade. And here's where the significance starts to come home. You could hope for a better job, less danger of layoffs and cheaper imported goods.

Cocoa from Nigeria, for instance, would cost the American consumer less. And Nigerians would be able to buy more American steel. Each country would be producing the thing it can do best and everybody would be better off.

A stable international trade situation would mean better economic conditions here for companies related in any way to foreign trade. And this would be reflected domestically in profits.

Since World War II, international trade has been growing. But this growth has been threatened lately by the weakness of the dollar. The United States was sending more dollars overseas than it was earning. Other countries didn't want too many dollars and were asking the United States for gold instead. When the American stock of gold got down to around $10 billion, President Nixon canceled the right of foreigners to get gold instead of dollars.

Now the world wants to find something to take the place of gold in exchanges between countries and to replace the dollar as an easy way of quoting the value of foreign currencies.

So the world money managers, the International Monetary Fund, at the meeting in Washington, are talking about setting up the Special Drawing Rights.

Of course, each country could also use its own money to settle these balances if the other country was willing to take it.

That is why the dollar would continue to be as good abroad as at home. It might be worth a few pfennigs or centimes less, but foreign banks and hotels would be willing to buy them for the local currency.

In fact, you might get a better rate than you do now. With a stable dollar exchange rate, the hotel could be sure the value of the dollar would not drop before it could take your dollars to the bank. Therefore the foreign hotel could afford to give a slightly better rate: say 3.3 marks to the dollar instead of 3.2.

Gold disappeared from American pockets 37 years ago and its absence hasn't made much difference to America's growth. The disappearance of the dollar should not make any more difference in world economic growth.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

Summer-like weather continues over the state following an unsuccessful effort of a cold front to move through Ohio last night. The front stalled in the central portion of Ohio and is expected to move north out of the state tonight.

Warm, humid air will remain over Ohio for the next few days.

Temperatures Wednesday soared to 90 at Lunken Airport near Cincinnati. While the coolest spots in the state were Youngstown, Toledo and Findlay with sultry 83s.

Early morning lows were in the 60s.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported over Ohio late yesterday. The heaviest rainfall was in southern Lorain County. Lesser amounts were reported at Mansfield, Youngstown and Cincinnati suburbs.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Mostly cloudy tonight and Friday with a chance of showers southeast tonight and east Friday. Lows tonight in the 60s. Highs Friday in the 80s.

EAST CENTRAL, SOUTHEAST — Cloudy tonight and Friday with a chance of showers. Lows tonight in mid to upper 60s. Highs Friday in low 80s.

WEST CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST — Partly cloudy tonight. Lows in the mid 60s. Cloudy Friday. Highs in low 80s.

Tigers Open Defense Of SCOL Title At Wilmington

Coach Denny Williams and his Circleville Tigers will be performing double duty Friday night when they open the South Central Ohio League competition at Alumni Field in Wilmington.

The Red and Black will not only be defending its SCOL crown but will be out to hold on to the number one spot in the state AA Associated Press rating.

Anything can happen when the SCOL teams collide and Friday's game promises to hold its share of fireworks.

Wilmington's 0-3 record on the season is not to be taken lightly as the Hurricane has encountered some tough opposition. The losses came at the hands of Xenia, Cincinnati Fairfield and Middletown, which is a rough row to hoe for anyone.

* * *

THE Hurricane is operating under a new coach, Les Walker, this year and has shown some bright spots in the early going.

Wilmington is a ball control type club with good size and fair speed accentuated with an adequate passing game.

They will operate from both a full house and I slot offense with split end in an attempt to move the ball.

Defensively the Hurricane will utilize a 4-4 formation.

"This is a big game for us," Tiger coach Williams stated, "as we open the defense of our SCOL title.

"It will take a lot of doing as the league appears to be strong with more balance than previous years," Williams continued. "Wilmington is always a touch club for us and they will certainly be up for Friday's contest."

The Tigers will move with a balanced attack from multiple T offense in an effort to put points on the scoreboard at Alumni Field.

Circleville's Oklahoma defense, which has shown quite well in the first three games, be out to thwart the offensive maneuvers of the Hurricane.

Iain Griffey's injured knee is responding to treatment and he should be available for limited duty against Wilmington.

Outside of some bumps and bruises the rest of the Tiger team is in good shape and ready to go.

The offensive unit of the Tigers will consist of Captain Don Valentine at tight end and Dave Webb handfling the split end duties.

Mark Davey and Tom Frericks will man the tackle posts with Gary Mogan and Pete Bowers at the guards and Craig Allison snapping the ball.

* * *

DAVE Truex will be calling signals from the quarterback position, Tom Shea will be running from the left half spot, Mike Chelikowsky will hold down the right half with Rich Speakman at fullback.

When the Tigers move onto defense Mogan and Frericks will be at the ends with Greg Williams and Allison manning the tackles.

Mark Davey will anchor the line from the middle guard position.

Mike Hamrick and Valentine will be the linebackers with Jeff Harr, Chelikowsky, Webb and Truex making up the defensive secondary.

NL West Race Comes Down To Wire

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

After 161 games of the regular season, the hectic National League's West Division pennant race boils down to one game . . . or possibly two.

The 162-game schedule reaches its climax tonight, with the San Francisco Giants holding a precarious one-game lead over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

A San Francisco victory over the Padres at San Diego or a Dodger loss at home against the Houston Astros would make the Giants champions and send them into the NL playoffs against Pittsburgh, beginning Saturday on the West Coast.

However, a Giants' setback and a Dodger victory would put the teams in a tie for the lead and force a one-game playoff Friday at San Francisco.

The Giants, who have led since April 12th, muffed an opportunity to clinch the title Wednesday night, bowing to San Diego 4-1 on Nate Colbert's three-run homer in the 1th inning. However, they were assured of no worse than a tie for first place when the Dodgers were trounced by Houston 11-0.

Montreal defeated Chicago 6-5 in the only other National League game.

The Giants will use their ace right-hander, Juan Marichal, 17-11, against San Diego's Dave Roberts, a tough left-hander with a 14-16 record in an attempt to win their first title since 1962. However, Marichal has been seeing a doctor about a sore hip and the injury could curtail his effectiveness. Marichal is 3-0 against the Padres this season, while Roberts is 0-3 against the Giants.

Despite the figures, San Diego Manager Preston Gomez is certain there will be a playoff. "The last game is going to be in San Francisco Friday," he said. "Roberts is going to win for us and the Dodgers are going to win."

Told of Gomez' prediction, Giants' Manâger Charlie Fox said: "He's entitled to his opinion."

Los Angeles' imperturbable manager, Walt Alston, took the Dodgers' defeat as calmly as could be expected. "They just beat the hell out of us," he said. "But it's no worse than losing 1-0. It also was nice to have the Giants lose, but we're still disgusted with our own score."

Alston will send right-hander Don Sutton, 16-12, against former Dodger Jack Billingham, 10-15, in tonight's windup.

Colbert, San Diego's big slugger, said he hit an inside, belt-high fastball off Giants' relief ace, Jerry Johnson, 12-9, over the left field wall in the 11th inning for his 27th homer of the season, breaking a 1-1 deadlock.

"I felt like I was due for a base hit," said the Padres' first baseman. "I was starting to get a little upset because I've been failing in clutch situations."

Tommy Dean started the Padres' winning rally with a leadoff single off Johnson, who had relieved starter John Cumberland with two out in the fifth inning. Don Mason forced Dean, but John Jeter reached first and Mason was safe at second when Tito Fuentes dropped shortstop Chris Speier's throw on an attempted force play on Jeter's grounder.

"I don't think it would have been a double play ball," said Fox. "If it had been a double play it would have been a great one. Jeter runs too fast."

Then, Colbert ended it.

Clay Kirby went the distance for San Diego and held the Giants to seven hits for his 15th victory—most by a Padre pitcher in the club's three-year history. He struck out 11.

"Normally I don't get nervous before a game," he said. "but walking out to the mound against the Giants, I felt the pressure. Even though it didn't mean anything to us, I felt like we were in the pennant race."

Kirby was tough in the clutch, stranding 11 San Francisco runners, including seven in the first three innings.

The Giants scored only in the seventh on a run-producing single by Dave Kingman, who had replaced injured right fielder Bobby Bonds in the sixth. Bonds left the game with a painful rib injury and was a doubtful starter for tonight's game.

Houston unleashed a 16-hit assault against Los Angeles, including a homer and two singles by Bob Watson in support of Ken Forsch's nine-hit shutout pitching.

The Astros erupted for four runs in the first inning against 20-game winner Al Downing. Watson singled in the first run. Jesus Alou doubled in another and Larry Howard capped the outburst with a two-run single. Watson homered with one on in the fourth for a 6-0 lead and the Astros added two runs in the fifth, two in the sixth and one in the seventh.

"I hope they got all their hitting out of their system," said Alston.

NFL Leaders Are Shuffled In New Data

NEW YORK (AP) — Norm Bulaich didn't have to run much to remain the National Conference's No. 1 rusher but Willie Ellison had to churn up the real estate to vault from 10th to first in the American Conference.

The National Football League's individual statistics released today showed that Bulaich of Baltimore, who gained a Colts-record 198 yards in their opening game, carried the ball 11 times for only 63 yards against Cleveland last Sunday.

But his two-game total of 261 yards still gives him a solid lead over the Miami Dolphins' tandem of Jim Kiick with 171 yards and Larry Csonka with 166.

Ellison, meanwhile, was 10th a week ago. But the Los Angeles Rams' star turned it on against Atlanta, grinding out 138 yards in 19 carries for a two-game sum of 181 yards. Calvin Hill of Dallas remained second with 164 yards while Donnie Anderson of Green Bay, last week's leader, fell to fourth behind Larry Brown of Washington.

Virgil Carter of Cincinnati, with 44 completions in 68 attempts for 528 yards, remained the AFC's top passer over Buffalo's Dennis Shaw, who hit 35 of 53 passes for 507 yards.

But Bob Berry of Atlanta, No. 2 a week ago in the NFC, replaced Craig Morton of Dallas as the leader with 31 of 43 for 486 yards to Morton's 25 of 36 for 409.

Bob Grim stayed the top NFC receiver with 12 for 217 yards to the 11 for 124 yards recorded by Chicago's Dick Gordon.

Rookie John Riggins of the New York Jets, fifth-leading pass catcher in the AFC a week ago, took over the top spot with a two-game total of 12 receptions for 72 yards. Fair Hooker of Cleveland is No. 2 with 11 catches for 147 yards while last week's leader, Eric Crabtree of Cincinnati, fell to seventh.

Colbert, Indians End Season With Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Vince Colbert was the 10th man on the Cleveland Indians pitching staff when the 1971 baseball season began —now he's the ace and the long stopper and that, in part, describes the dismal campaign that ended Wednesday, suprisingly enough on an upward note, as the Indians stopped the Detroit Tigers, 2-1, and knocked off 25-game winner Mickey Lolich.

Starter and winner for Cleveland? Vince Colbert.

Cleland Mortson Signed By Swords

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cleland Mortson, who played for the Kansas City Blues last year, was signed by the Cincinnati Swords of the American Hockey League late Wednesday night and then was named captain.

Mortson, who was a free agent, plays center and is 36 years old.

Vincent Bracciale Jr. rode 55 winners at Monmouth Park this season and was the first apprentice to lead the jockeys since Howard Grant's rookie year of 1963.

TRADER'S DAY
AND FISH FRY
ALL DAY! ALL DAY!
Saturday, Oct. 2, 1971
County Fairgrounds,
Circleville, Ohio
GATES OPEN AT 8:00 A.M.

Horse and Pony Sale will be in the evening. Bring anything and everything that you want to sell or trade. Someone is always ready to buy what you want to sell or will swap with you.

YES — bring guns, dogs, goats, chickens, watches, furniture, antiques, horses, ponies, or anything and everything. These Traders' Days have been enjoyed by all of us for the past seven years, so let's make this a whing-ding of a Traders' Day. A small fee of $4.00 will be charged for each table for your sales and an auctioneer will be on the ground starting at 1:00 p.m. to auction a truckload of new merchandise only. Cash will be collected after each sale.

Horse and Pony Auction will start at the usual time in the evening.

There will be plenty of food and delicious fish served all day, and don't forget — Regular Horse Sale always the third Saturday of every month.

TRADER'S DAY
AND FISH FRY
ALL DAY! ALL DAY!
Saturday, Oct. 2, 1971
County Fairgrounds,
Circleville, Ohio
GATES OPEN AT 8:00 A.M.

Horse and Pony Sale will be in the evening. Bring anything and everything that you want to sell or trade. Someone is always ready to buy what you want to sell or will swap with you.

YES — bring guns, dogs, goats, chickens, watches, furniture, antiques, horses, ponies, or anything and everything. These Traders' Days have been enjoyed by all of us for the past seven years, so let's make this a whing-ding of a Traders' Day. A small fee of $4.00 will be charged for each table for your sales and an auctioneer will be on the ground starting at 1:00 p.m. to auction a truckload of new merchandise only. Cash will be collected after each sale.

Horse and Pony Auction will start at the usual time in the evening.

There will be plenty of food and delicious fish served all day, and don't forget — Regular Horse Sale always the third Saturday of every month.
